Federal Writers' Book Received in Atlanta

First copies of "Direction" published under the subtitle of "American Stuff" and written by workers of the WPA Federal Writers' project on "off-time," have been received in Atlanta.

The publication is appearing as a non-profit guest issue and contains selection of short stories, poetry, literary criticism, folklore and reportage by writers from every section of the country. There are 128 pages and eight reproductions of lithographs.

CREDIT OFFICERS TO BE INSTALLED

Atlanta Association Meets Thursday Night.

Officers and directors for 1933 will be installed by the Atlanta Retail Credit Association at the annual meeting at 8:15 o'clock Thursday night in the Daffodil tea room, it was announced yesterday.

The officers, elected last January 13, are T. J. Bryan, president; J. A. Baumgartner, vice president; and L. S. Gilbert, secretary and treasurer.

Directors are Lenville Parker, T. B. Everett, H. H. Feltis, Kenneth Chastain, Talley Kirkland and Mrs. Colan Traylor.

QUINTUPLETS RECOVER.

CALLANDER, Ont., Feb. 7.—(P) Dr. Allan Roy Dufoe allowed the Dionne quintuplets to get out of bed today for the first time in more than a week. The physician said the famous sisters were almost completely recovered from head colds which have kept them confined.

Hitler To Extend Diplomatic, Army Purge

Pivotal Posts To Go Only to Nazis Whose Loyalty Is Unquestioned.

BERLIN, Feb. 7.—(P)—Chancellor Adolf Hitler and his newly elevated foreign minister, Joachim von Ribbentrop, are believed to be considering a clean sweep of the German diplomatic service to put Nazis of unquestioned loyalty in all pivotal posts.

This impression was gained from reliable foreign office circles as von Ribbentrop was closeted today with Der Fuehrer at his mountain home at Berghesgaden in Bavaria.

Even Ulrich von Hassell, recalled ambassador to Rome, is regarded as "too reactionary," these sources said, and consequently would not be sent to London as von Ribbentrop's successor. It had been assumed universally he would get that post.

Army Purge Seen.

According to the best information available a further purge of the army as well as a diplomatic cleanup will take place. The army changes will not take the form of arrests but discharges like those of the 13 generals who were dismissed in Hitler's startling assumption of direct control Friday of the armed forces and the foreign office.

Of the army changes, the new task assigned to General Walter von Reichenau is assuming more and more interest.

His appointment to succeed Colonel General Werner von Fritsch as commander in chief seemed so certain last Friday it was disclosed unofficially by government sources to some foreign correspondents.

Instead, he was placed in charge of the fourth army group with headquarters at Leipzig but with jurisdiction also over Bavaria, where he previously had commanded at Munich.

Significant Assignment.

In view of the strained relations between Germany and Czechoslovakia and Germany's pronounced interest in the Nazi minority across the border, this ardent party man may be called upon to act very quickly in the event of untoward incidents at the frontier.

REV. MARTIN NIEMOELLER.

vakia and Germany's pronounced interest in the Nazi minority across the border, this ardent party man may be called upon to act very quickly in the event of untoward incidents at the frontier.

Eberhard von Stohrer, now ambassador to the Spanish Insurgent regime, will go to London, according to the present plans. Count Frederich Werner von Der Schulenberg, ambassador to Moscow, is to be moved to Japan with an anti-Communism pact. Significantly enough the Moscow post is to be left vacant.

Hans Frank, minister without portfolio and head of the Academy for German Law, is to go to Italy, the third partner in the anti-Communism front. He is a close friend of Italian Premier Mussolini and as an original Hitler man may be trusted to knit Italy and Germany even more closely.

Secret Speech of Nazi Police Chief Reveals Fear of German Civil War

gime, before the officers' corps, the elite of the German army. Despite the utmost military secrecy which surrounded the delivery of the address, the full text of it, nearly 5,000 words, was smuggled out of the government archives and appeared in the Neuer Vorwaerts, organ of the German social democratic refugees in Czechoslovakia.

Two Distinct Threats.

Himmler warned the officers of the German Reichswehr that, in another war, they must figure on two distinct war threats—one against the foreign enemy, and another against the opponents of the Nazi regime in Germany proper. He designated the domestic war theater by the phrase "Kriegsschauplatz Innerdeutschland," the "war theater in the interior of Germany." He told the officers that his own "security troops" would take care of the domestic war phase and described at length the composition, training and armaments of the troops designed to suppress civil war at home, which he commanded.

In informed circles in New York it is reliably asserted that it was the approaching specter of civil war, and not the comparatively trivial incident of Field Marshal von Blomberg's marriage to a "commoner" that brought about the latest German army purge. In the event of a civil war in Germany, Chancellor Hitler is determined to keep the army on the side of the National Socialist regime. Hence his assumption of the office of war minister. By this he hopes to be able to keep in closer touch with the army.

Army Chiefs Warned.

Herr Himmler warned the army chiefs that his department, the army, and the National Socialist regime generally, would have no easy task in a struggle with the opposition forces at home.

"We must be perfectly clear about that," Himmler said. "If we are to be successful in our foreign war operations, we must break up and destroy this domestic opposition to war. It is not an opposition in a military sense only. It is an ideological opposition. It is an opposition to Nazi Weltanschauung."

He was keeping 8,000 political leaders and spokesmen of the former opposition parties in concentration camps, Herr Himmler stated. This number, instead of being diminished, would be increased in the near future, he said.

"I have the backing of the Fuehrer for further arrests," Herr Himmler continued, "and I will arrest as many of the leaders of the opposition parties as can be reached. I will tell you why."

Herr Himmler listed the principal issues about which the civil war spirit in Germany rallied, as follows:

1. The religious issue. Even Russian Communists, he said, have taken up this issue and are using it as lever of revolution in Germany.

2. The question of German unity. Herr Himmler charged that there was a group of professors in Germany who declared that the Austrians were not Germans. They were not part of the German race and were entitled to live as a nation apart, the same as the German-speaking Swiss. He was referring out these professors, he said.

3. The resurgence of democracy was another of the issues, he declared, which threatened the National Socialist regime.

4. Finally, there was the question of sabotage.

"Death Head Hussars."

Herr Himmler said he had set aside 25,000 troops, known as the "Death Head Hussars," to ferret out the civil war at home. These troops, which were formerly used as guards in concentration camps, are divided into small formations of about a hundred each, and are scattered throughout Germany. One of the rules is that these troops must not serve in their home territory, in order not to be moved by family ties in their duties of repression, and must not serve more than three weeks at any one place.

The editors of the Neuer Vorwaerts, who obtained this secret speech of Himmler, comment sarcastically upon the fact that, in spite of all talk of loyalty and enthusiasm for the Nazi regime, it is the first time in German history that a regime cannot rely upon its own people. In 1914, they assert, such a thought did not enter the Kaiser's mind. He trusted the German people and the German army implicitly.

WOODS FIRES SWEEP CAROLINA LINE AREA

Widespread Forest Damage Reported in Lincoln, Other Counties.

AUGUSTA, Feb. 7.—(P)—An epidemic of forest fires raged through the rich timber lands of western South Carolina and eastern Georgia today, doing untold damage as rangers and CCC workers toiled feverishly in an effort to avert what threatened to be a section-wide catastrophe.

Hardest hit by the unprecedented series of fires was Aiken county, South Carolina, which tonight counted 15 large blazes sweeping underbrush and young trees in widely scattered sections of the county.

The damage in the Aiken area was estimated at upward of $10,000 by County Ranger L. P. Joyner, who said he had "never seen anything like it" in his career as a forester.

District Forester W. G. Wallace, of Macon, in Augusta for several forestry demonstrations, said he counted today "well over a hundred" fires between the two cities.

Wallace said he drove from Macon to Augusta this afternoon. "It's just the time of year when people in the country are setting fire to woods," Wallace said. "Contrary to general belief, most of the fires are set purposely and were not accidental."

Even as far as Greenwood, S. C., fires dotted the landscape. A Chronicle writer, flying from the Carolina city to Augusta this afternoon, estimated conservatively more than 250 individual blazes sent their grayish clouds of smoke billowing aloft more than 1,000 feet.

In Lincoln county, Georgia, officials said fires were sweeping the Double Branches and Little River communities. The damage was heavy, they said, and covered a wide area.

No damage to homes or farmhouses was reported tonight.

CHRISTIAN COUNCIL ACTS ON REPEAL

Resolution Asks Publishing of Names.

At the regular meeting of the Christian Council yesterday the matter of the signatures to petitions being circulated for an election on the liquor question was discussed, resulting in unanimous adoption of the following action:

"In view of the fact that we are informed an effort will be made to precipitate an election in Fulton county to determine whether or not this county will legalize the liquor business:

"Be it resolved that in the interest of accuracy, any names submitted to the proper authorities requesting this action be published in our daily papers."

1,000 Tobacco Farmers Bank on His Judgment

IN THE warehouses Mr. Pinnix has managed in Georgia, North Carolina, and South Carolina, 46,000,000 pounds of tobacco have been sold. Farmers travel many miles to bring their crops to Mr. Pinnix's warehouse for sale. Reason is that they respect his tobacco experience and business integrity. So surely Mr. Pinnix's views are worth your respect, too.

"At every market I've ever attended," says Mr. Pinnix, "Lucky Strike has bought the ripest, mellowest tobacco offered. That's why I've smoked Luckies ever since I first became a warehouseman 20 years ago."

Mr. Pinnix's statement is borne out by sworn records which show that, among independent tobacco experts—auctioneers, buyers, and warehousemen—Luckies have over twice as many exclusive smokers as have all the other cigarettes combined.

HAVE YOU HEARD "THE CHANT OF THE TOBACCO AUCTIONEER" ON THE RADIO? When you do, remember that Luckies use the finest tobacco. And also that the "Toasting" process removes certain harsh irritants found in all tobacco. So Luckies are kind to your throat.

RUSSIAN DIPLOMAT MISSING FROM POST

Charge d'Affaires Butenko Vanishes From Legation at Bucharest.

BUCHAREST, Rumania, (Tuesday), Feb. 8.—(UP)—Theodore Butenko, charge d'affaires of the Soviet Russian legation here, has disappeared, it was disclosed today.

That Butenko was missing was confirmed by a staff member of the Soviet legation.

"It is quite true that our charge d'affaires, Theodore Butenko, has disappeared," a spokesman said. "We have informed the police. I cannot give you details."

co-operated in arrangements to bring Judge Hatfield here.

Judge Hatfield, who is 37 years old, now is completing his fifth year as probate and juvenile judge of Berrien county, Michigan. He lives at St. Joseph, Mich., and is author of "Children in Court," a book dealing with causes and prevention of juvenile delinquency.

Four Causes of Delinquency.

In a recent speech in Detroit, Judge Hatfield listed four major causes of juvenile delinquency: Parental indifference, lack of adequate recreation to take care of leisure time, lack of religious training and maladjustments or problems of personality.

Judge Hatfield said the best method to use against the indifference of parents to the needs and conduct of their children was a system of parental education, and, when necessary, personal talks with all members of a disrupted family.

GIRL TELLS OF NET IN BRITISH SPY CASE

'Miss X' Faces Suspect Who Had Thought Her His Paid Accomplice.

LONDON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—A blonde "Miss X" and two other British secret agents, known as "Mr. Y" and "Mr. Z," unraveled in Bow street court today the details of an elaborate three-year net laid for four men accused of stealing arms plans for a foreign power.

"Miss X," wearing a black two-piece ensemble and a smart halo hat, calmly faced the man who until 17 days ago thought she was his paid accomplice. She told the court how she sprang the trap on P. E. Glading, former employee at Woolwich arsenal, and his companions.

The blonde heroine of Britain's latest spy thriller disclosed that the four were arrested after she telephoned the intelligence service January 21 and gave a tip that Glading was going to meet some one at Charing Cross to get a document to be photographed.

Glading told her of his plans when she lunched with him that day, she testified.

JAPAN DEFERS REPLY ON NAVAL BUILDING

TOKYO, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The foreign minister and the navy minister declared today that no decision had been reached on answers to formal queries from the United States, France and Great Britain about Japan's naval building program.

Both Foreign Minister Koki Hirota and Admiral Mistumasa Yonai, navy minister, told questioners in parliament the question still was being considered.

Domestically, however, the Japanese navy officials had decided against disclosing details of their program.

The United States and Great Britain asked in notes Saturday that Japan inform them by February 20 of any plans to build battleships exceeding the 35,000-ton limit set by the 1936 naval treaty between the two powers and France. A similar note was delivered by France today.

A foreign office spokesman denied Japan planned to build "capital ships of 43,000 tons," but did not say whether ships of over 35,000 tons were being built.

been committed by someone with strong personal grudge or an imagined hate," Gould added.

"Dr. Lee never campaigned against vice, but he was exceedingly gruff in commenting on the acts of individuals, and to the individuals."

Gould said the county offered $500 of the reward and residents of the island the other $500. A resort operator said he would pay another $500 if evidence showed the crime had any connection with "local conditions on the island or in Brunswick."

St. Simons is an island on the southeastern Georgia coast, connected by a causeway to Brunswick, the Glynn county seat. It is popular as a resort and vacation center, and is the site of many vacation homes of prominent Georgians.

Few Clues Found.

Officers had few clues in the shooting. There were footprints, somewhat washed by rain, leading from a point near the rectory to a woods near by, where they became lost in heavy grass.

There were two .38-caliber bullets, one of lead, the other—the lethal one—copper-jacketed. The lead bullet, found imbedded in a wall, had passed through a windowpane close to the rector's head about 30 minutes before the death shot, officials said.

Coroner Baldwin said the bullets were of a type generally fired only by a rifle, or an automatic pistol. They were sent to the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington for study.

Funeral Set for Today.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow morning at 10:30 o'clock in Christ church. The Rev. Middleton S. Barnwell, of Savannah, bishop of the Georgia diocese of the Episcopal church, will officiate. He will be assisted by the Rev. David Cady Wright, of Savannah; the Rev. Willie Lee, of Alabama; the Rev. Cobb White Jr., of Thomasville, and the Rev. Royal K. Tucker, of Brunswick.

Prominent residents and officials of Glynn county, St. Simons Island and Brunswick will make up the honorary escort.

Two daughters of the rector were en route here from New York tonight. They are Miss Lucy Carter Lee, chemist in a Coopers-town (N. Y.) hospital, and Mrs. Dwight Day, of Portsmouth, N. H. Dr. Lee entered the ministry in 1893, but had taught school in Brunswick before that. He had served Christ church 11 years.

LUXURY SALES TAX TO COME UP TODAY

Levy of 10 Per Cent on Soft Drinks and Admissions Urged.

cent tax on the gross receipts of admissions to the following:

Billiard or pool rooms, bowling alleys, theaters and opera houses, motion picture shows, vaudeville houses, amusement parks, athletic contests, including wrestling and boxing, football or baseball games, skating rinks, race tracks, golf courses, public dance halls and public bathing pools.

The bill specifically provides the levy shall be in effect on athletic contests within the University System, and it charges the board of regents with the responsibility for accounting for the taxes to the state tax commissioner.

On sporting goods the tax will be levied only against goods costing $1 or more, while on firearms the tax shall be collected on arms costing $10 and up.

Representative Pound, of Hancock, made the motion to report the bill favorably.

Previous Drink Tax Beaten.

A soft drink tax was defeated earlier in the session. The committee's action was the outstanding feature of yesterday's session, given over somewhat to personal discussions by many members, including Speaker Harris, who told the house that he intended to call up for action all forms of tax bills during the week.

"This house will get to vote on all measures pending before it," Harris said. "We hope to bring up the luxury tax tomorrow, the gasoline tax the next day and that bill to divert future rentals of the Western & Atlantic railroad the day following."

Harris spoke before the ways and means committee act. After the luxury tax was reported favorably he said the other bills would be called up if the luxury tax failed.

The speaker followed Representatives Blease, of Brooks; Elliott, of Muscogee, and Lanier, in speaking on personal privilege.

Blease Asks Adjournment.

Blease urged immediate adjournment saying no more tax bills would be passed, while Elliott charged that the Rivers' administration should cease its demands for additional revenue. He called on the house to reject the revenue bills.

Three motions for sine die adjournment Saturday night later were offered, two in the house and one in the senate. The house tabled its two motions while the senate motion, by Whitehead, of Carlton, was referred to the committee on rules by President Spivey.

During a discussion of the motion the president pro tem. of the senate, Senator Terrell, of Warrenton, said he didn't believe the administration was making a serious effort to replace funds lost by the counties through homestead and personal property exemptions.

Wine Tax Cut Bill Falls.

The house spent most of the day debating a bill by Representative Key, of Jasper county, to lower the wine tax and make some revisions of the wine law. The vote on the bill, 86 for, to 61 against, left it without the 103 votes necessary for adoption. Key gave notice he would seek reconsideration this morning.

The house also voted to postpone indefinitely its action on the Burgh home rule bill. The action had the effect of killing the bill.

The senate tabled a bill to increase Confederate pensions from $30 to $40 per month, on the grounds that it was an appropriation bill and should have originated in the house.

A resolution to turn over a $50,000 fund to the State Radio Commission was passed by the senate, with an amendment providing it be used for new equipment at station WGST in Atlanta. It goes back to the house for concurrence.

The motor vehicle committee of the senate has approved an administration bill to distribute automobile tags through county tax officials.

The vote against a favorable report for this bill, already passed by the house, was 9 to 8. Notice was given that a minority report would be filed. Sponsors of the bill said it was designed to provide income to county tax collectors lost under the homestead exemption acts.

The senate passed unanimously a bill authorizing the board of managers of the State School for the Blind at Macon to accept donations and bequests from individuals, corporations or states, for carrying on the work there. The measure goes to the house.

Senator Lindsay introduced a bill to provide a state ranger to patrol the Tattnall prison farm. Lindsay said the state owned nearly 10,000 acres in Tattnall and that poachers were taking timber from the property. The ranger would be paid by the prison administration.

Fewer Babies, Says Prelate If Women Get Equal Rights

Monsignor Ryan Advises Senators in Room Full of Females.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—A Catholic leader advised five male senators in a room full of women today that to grant feminist demands for an "equal rights" amendment to the constitution possibly would mean fewer babies for America.

The Rt. Rev. John A. Ryan, of the National Catholic Welfare Council, told the senate judiciary committee that "one of the causes of the declining birth rate is the presence of married women in industry."

"Now this amendment—to put it mildly—won't discourage that," he added.

Women Back Monsignor.
In his opposition to the amendment, Monsignor Ryan had the backing of most, if not all, the women in the room. A spokeswoman said they represented organizations which believed that if women gained "equal rights" they would lose the protection of many special laws such as those designed to improve their working conditions.

Miss Dorothy Straus, New York attorney, told the senators that the amendment proposal was an effort to "legislate the ladies" into images of men.

"That any women taking a good look at the world around them... should want to recreate themselves in the image of man is beyond me," she said.

The amendment has the support of the National Women's Party and other groups.

Quotes Havelock Ellis.
At one point, Father Ryan read from the works of Havelock Ellis, the authority on sex, that "the whole organism of the average woman, physical and psychic, is fundamentally unlike that of the average man."

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, interrupted to ask whether congress, once the constitution was changed, could not itself decide on the inequalities between men and women.

"That would be a question for the courts," said Ryan.

"What I'm getting at," said Borah, "is—what is equality?"

"The Lord only knows," the priest replied.

"What, in your opinion," Senator O'Mahoney, Democrat, Wyoming, inquired, "did the writers of the Declaration of Independence mean by 'all men are born free and equal'?"

"Well, I'm afraid, they meant men," said the priest. There was a titter in the audience. The senators smiled broadly.

FILIBUSTER DRONES IN EMPTY SENATE

Barkley Announces No Change in Plan To Take Up Farm Bill Report.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The southern filibuster against the anti-lynching bill droned on in the senate today, Senator Bilbo, Democrat, Mississippi, speaking to an almost empty chamber.

Bilbo, who announced last week that he was prepared to speak for 30 days, was interrupted Friday when the senate voted down a motion to lay aside the anti-lynching measure in favor of an appropriation bill.

Democratic Leader Barkley, of Kentucky, said today there had been no change in intentions to take up the conference report on the new farm bill as soon as the house was acted on it. He declined to say, however, whether he would move to lay aside the anti-lynching bill after the conference report is out of the way.

Senator Bilbo charged that the pending bill had its origin in politics.

Might Rob Bank, Says Rome Boy, Surrenders Self

ST. ALBANS, W. Va., Feb. 7.—(AP)—Gerald C. Bates' fear he would rob a bank "and get into serious trouble" ended today with a six-month jail sentence for the Rome (Ga.) youth.

Patrolman Carl Gunnoe said Bates walked up to him last night and handed over a gun.

"I want you to put me in jail," Gunnoe quoted Bates, "because I might rob a bank and get into serious trouble."

The surprised Gunnoe accompanied the youth to the police station, where the patrolman said Bates related he had stopped a car several hours earlier in an attempted robbery, but permitted the driver to go unharmed after a search disclosed no money.

Gunnoe added Bates told him he had hitch-hiked to Racine, Ky., where he "borrowed" the gun from a relative and then came to this Kanawha county town, intending to rob a bank.

"But they were all closed," Gunnoe said the youth told him. The patrolman related Bates said he intended to "hold up people who looked like they had money" until he had $500 for an operation to remove a cataract.

U. S. FLYING OFFICER MISSING IN HAWAII

Lieut. Frank McAllister
Last Seen Sunday After Pearl Harbor Dance.

HONOLULU, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Navy and civilian police began a search today for Lieutenant Frank McAllister, attached to the Pearl Harbor airbase, reported missing since 1:30 o'clock Sunday morning.

The officer, prominent socially, was reported missing by Rear Admiral Orin G. Murfin, commandant of the fourteenth naval district.

Authorities said Lieutenant McAllister was last seen walking ashore from a small boat on Pearl Harbor after attending a dance at the Officers' Club on Ford Island. His car was found parked near the landing.

because his "sweetheart wouldn't marry me until I had my eye operated on."

The youth was questioned later by state police and sentenced by Magistrate G. C. Berridge to six months in jail for illegal possession of a gun.

LEWIS' MINE UNION OUSTED FROM AFL

Dismissal Also of Flat Glass, Smelter Men Ordered;
Green Quits Miners.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7.—(AP)—The American Federation of Labor announced today the complete ouster of three big unions affiliated with the Committee for Industrial Organization, presaging intensified warfare between the two rival labor organizations.

The AFL charters of the United Mine Workers, the Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers and the Flat Glass Workers were revoked, opening those fields for AFL affiliates. The charters of these and other CIO unions had been suspended by the AFL a year and a half ago but the latest action severed their last ties.

Lewis Declines Comment.
John L. Lewis, head of the mine union and of the CIO, issued a statement at Washington saying "the action is unimportant and without significance" and said he would have no further comment.

The AFL executive council exercised the power given it at the Denver convention last October and voted to recall the charters last Friday, but the move was not announced until today, pending receipt of a certified copy of the proceedings at the miners' convention in Washington last week.

The mine union amended its constitution to give allegiance to the CIO instead of the AFL, and the federation's executives construed this as "severing all affiliations and relationships with the AFL," and in fact declaring the AFL an organization dual to the CIO.

Peace Efforts Blocked.
The ouster resolution also charged that AFL efforts "to effect unity and peace in the ranks of organized labor have been frustrated by the arbitrary and dictatorial action of the officers of the UMW who, by reason of the financial support given to the CIO, have had from the very beginning the complete veto power over all its policies and decisions and have been in actual and absolute control of its leadership."

William Green, president of the AFL, said he would drop the membership in the miners' union he has held since it was chartered 48 years ago. The UMW has threatened to expel him and has ordered its executive board to try him for "treason."

PINE LAKE ELECTS C. W. CHILDS MAYOR

Pharmacist Wins in First Election Held Under New Charter.

C. W. Childs, prominent pharmacist, was chosen mayor in the first election held in the Pine Lake community on Rockbridge road, five miles north of Avondale, yesterday.

His election was the first since Pine Lake received a charter last December from the general assembly. Three councilmen also were chosen. They were Newt A. Garner, three-year term; Henry D. Guthrie, two years, and W. A. Dodge Jr., one year.

A total of 146 votes was cast in balloting in the clubhouse from 9 o'clock yesterday morning until 9 o'clock last night. Childs was one of the first to build a home in the community, which was opened three years ago as a summer resort development.

Harvey S. Firestone Dies in Sleep; Built Gigantic Rubber Enterprise was called. Apparently the complaint was not considered serious. The cause of death was coronary thrombosis, the coronary artery being one of two main vessels leading from the heart.

Mr. Firestone suffered a severe cold last month and Dr. Andrew S. Robinson came here from Akron, Ohio, to treat him but he recovered rapidly and the physician returned several days ago to Ohio. The rubber magnate visited a Miami Beach physician's office late last week but it was only for a routine check up.

Mr. Firestone arrived from Akron this season on his birthday, December 20, and in an interview blamed the current business downturn on "government regulation of industry." He urged a "right-about-face on regulation" and repeal of the undistributed profits and capital gains taxes.

Born on Farm.
Born on a farm near Columbiana, Ohio, in 1868, Mr. Firestone as a boy expressed a desire for a commercial career. After graduating from high school and business college he obtained his first position as bookkeeper for John W. Taft in a Columbus coal firm.

After serving the company as salesman and sales manager for some time, Mr. Firestone interested himself in rubber tires while demonstrating a rubber-tired bug in Detroit.

Foreseeing the vast demand for rubber tires by the rapidly growing automobile industry, he went into business for himself in Chicago with an initial investment of less than $15,000. He sold out a few years later for $1,254,000.

Moving to Akron, Mr. Firestone bought a renovated machine shop and launched the company he developed into one of the country's largest industrial concerns.

The firm acquired cotton mills in Massachusetts, buying centers for raw rubber in Malay and lands in Liberia where rubber plantations were developed. The Liberia plantations were an important factor in his campaign against the rubber monopoly by Great Britain when it restricted output.

Mr. Firestone was president of the Rubber Association of America during the World War years from 1916 to 1918 and was active in the association's program to supply the country's military demands.

Retired as President in '32.
He retired as president of the Firestone Company in 1932 and was succeeded by John W. Thomas, the firm's first chemist. Mr. Firestone became chairman of the board.

A controlling majority of the stock in the tire company and some 30 subsidiaries was retained by the Firestone family but in recent years Mr. Firestone transferred a large portion of it to his sons.

Mr. Firestone's occasional periods of ill health in recent years did not interfere to any considerable extent with his varied activities in business, philanthropy, church work and on his farm at Columbiana where he spent much of each summer.

The rubber magnate purchased his winter home here from the James A. Snowden estate and spent considerable sums in landscaping and for additions. He fitted out one building as an office and kept in close touch with his Akron offices while here.

One of his chief diversions was putting a golf ball on a practice green on the grounds. He took an active part in a number of civic enterprises but usually remained in the background. He was vice president of the Committee of 100 and a member of the exclusive Bath and Tennis and Indian Creek clubs.

Married in 1895.
He and Mrs. Firestone, the former Isabella Smith, of Jackson, Mich., were married in 1895. The sons in addition to Russell are Harvey Jr., Raymond, Roger and Leonard.

The death of Mr. Firestone left Henry Ford as the only surviving member of a famous quartet of nature lovers who took their vacations together for years. The others were John Burroughs, the naturalist, who died in 1921, and Thomas A. Edison, who died 10 years later.

Until the death of Edison, who spent his winters at Fort Myers on the west coast of Florida, he and Firestone frequently visited each other.

The rubber magnate and Ford remained close friends. They met when Firestone was a buggy salesman and Ford was seeking a vehicle to be powered by his gasoline motor. Firestone helped design a chassis.

FIRESTONE FUNERAL TO BE HELD FRIDAY
AKRON, Ohio, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The body of Harvey S. Firestone will be brought to Akron Thursday morning to lie in state at the Firestone home, Harbel Manor. The Rev. Walter F. Tunks, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal church, will officiate at the funeral at the home at 10 o'clock Friday morning.

Burial will follow in the village cemetery at Columbiana, Ohio, near the farm where Firestone was born.

FIRESTONE PROMISED VISIT HERE IN SPRING
The death of Harvey S. Firestone at his Florida home yesterday thwarted the tire magnate's plan for an extensive visit to Atlanta in the spring, a visit on which he promised to talk about things in general as he saw them.

Mr. Firestone stopped briefly here December 19 on his way to Florida for the winter. He was moving his office with him and planned to carry on his work as usual, keep in constant touch with his Akron headquarters by telephone. He was greeted here by a group of Firestone executives headed by Joe E. Davis, southeastern zone sales manager.

On his last visit, Mr. Firestone said he usually tried to spend a day or two in Atlanta, longer if possible.

"Atlanta is a great place," the tire chief said. "I like it very much and when I come here I always wish I could stay longer. When I'm on my way back north in the spring I'll stop a while and tell you what I think of things. There's too much going on now."

MRS. R. H. JONES JR.
FINAL RITES TODAY
Charity Worker To Be Buried in Crest Lawn.

Funeral services for Mrs. R. H. Jones Jr., member of one of Atlanta's oldest and most prominent families, who died Sunday morning at her home, will be held at 11:30 o'clock this morning at Spring Hill. Dr. W. V. Gardner and Dr. John Brandon Peters will officiate. Burial will be in Crest Lawn cemetery.

Palbearers will be E. G. Hitt, John Gilmore, Fred H. Sned, Lewis D. Sharp, Dr. Dan Y. Sage, and Ashley Sellers.

Mrs. Jones was the wife of Robert H. Jones Jr., member of the law firm of Jones, Fuller & Clapp. Born in Atlanta, she was educated in the public schools here, later studying at Washington Seminary and in Washington, D. C. She was active in various historical, social and charity organizations.

She was 50 years of age, and lived at 81 Peachtree circle, N. E. The following members of the Atlanta Masonic Union will form an honorary escort: Vincent Cunningham, Simon Selig, Joe McGraw, John L. Cone, John Wood, T. F. Hemminger, Everett N. Brown, John Burdine and J. W. Setze Jr.

CIVIC GROUP TO HEAR ELECTION CANDIDATES
Political speeches will be given at the monthly meeting of the Fifth Ward Civic Association at 7:30 o'clock tomorrow night in the Forrest Avenue school, it was announced yesterday by Mrs. Mendie Boorstein, secretary.

Candidates in the sheriff's race and the March 2 county Democratic primary election have been invited to speak. The public is invited.

The Finest Compliment a Check Can Pay You!

Is there any higher compliment than to be told that you've contributed to saving human life and property? Certainly not. But along with that, shouldn't there go some definite recognition of the fact that you, and others who drive your car, have made a perfect record as safe drivers?

A new and modern plan for rewarding SAFE DRIVING on America's highways

TO PROMOTE SAFETY on America's highways, 31 leading stock casualty insurance companies and 90,000 agents and brokers have launched a Safe Driver Reward Plan, to give a definite money reward to careful drivers. This is the largest united effort of its kind ever undertaken... involving a greater expenditure of money than any other drive for highway safety.

A guaranteed reward

The Safe Driver Reward Plan provides for a return of 15 per cent of the annual premium, provided no loss occurs under a policy during the 12 months it is in force. This applies to policies written and renewed in this state on or after February 1, 1938.

This reward is available to all private passenger car owners who are insured for both bodily injury and property damage liability with any one of the companies listed herewith.*

It is a guaranteed reward—included in the contract.

See your local insurance adviser for details

The 31 companies listed on the right, which, with their representatives, have launched this plan, have already won the confidence of motorists by together writing more bodily injury and property damage liability insurance than any other group of companies in the world!

Their agents and brokers are in every city and town in the country. They offer you not only expert advice based on your personal needs, but immediate service in times of emergency.

Any of these representatives can give you full particulars of the Safe Driver Reward Plan. Join this campaign for safer driving... make yourself a candidate for the money reward. See your local representative today!

* It does not apply to automobiles subject to the automobile fleet plan, experience rating plan or other rating plans, or to owners of whom certificates of financial responsibility are required.

SENATOR BRIDGES ATTRIBUTES SLUMP TO POLICY OF NLRB

Board Members Are 'Economic Dictators First,' Republican Charges.

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Senator Bridges, Republican, New Hampshire, said tonight "the administration of our labor difficulties by the National Labor Relations Board is one of the basic causes for the present depression."

Demanding that the act be amended, Bridges said "all the benefits expected from a liberal measure have been dissipated in a wiful, un-American, Fascistic administration."

He called for "the purging of the present board of persons who believe they are crusaders and economic dictators first and arbitrators afterwards."

Speaking to the community forum, Bridges said, "Loopholes in the labor relations act whereby labor in the form of organized groups was given the right to make certain demands which were denied industry and thus violate

Tipping Is Unfair, First Lady Protests

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Mrs. Franklin Roosevelt protested today that the tipping system is "a beautiful way out" for employers who want to pay inadequate wages.

It should be eliminated, she told reporters. A person should know what he is going to earn when he goes to work.

the spirit of fair play, have enabled a biased and prejudiced labor board to make a mockery of a worthy and noble act."

The New Hampshire senator declared "many things here and abroad going on under the cloak of liberalism and democracy are in reality but schemes for the usurpation of the people's freedom."

He proposed amendment of the social security act "so that the social security fund cannot be tampered with by any administration" and called for a balanced budget.

"Social security funds that have been collected," he said, "are being used to pay the running expenses of the government. If this drain continues we can never build up the $47,000,000,000 reserve fund provided for. We couldn't even build up a $2 reserve."

COAL MEN CONVEENE IN ATLANTA TODAY

Southeastern Fuel Producers, Consumers Begin 22d Conference at 9 O'Clock.

Atlanta today becomes the "capital of coal technology" as coal producers and consumers in five southeastern states meet in the Twenty-second fuel engineering conference in the Ansley hotel.

The sessions begin at 9 o'clock this morning, and will be held during the day and tonight. Mayor Hartsfield will welcome the participants, who come from Georgia, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee.

J. E. Tobey, of Cincinnati, who planned the conference in co-operation with an Atlanta committee, will preside.

The Atlanta men who arranged the conference include E. W. O'Brien, T. M. Forbes, B. W. Sinclair, J. U. Benninger, J. N. Voorhies, A. D. Holland, A. W. Jones, M. J. McWhorter and Paul R. Yopp.

Coal men participating include Luther H. Randall, Joseph L. Spell, R. L. Adair Jr., Herman Kennedy, J. C. Collins, Paul E. Cox, George C. Munn, Roy D. Snider, H. A. Milliken, T. A. Day and C. F. Hardy.

Technical, semi-technical and engineering subjects will be discussed, and papers will be read by men prominent in fuel research and engineering.

Dr. A. C. Fieldner, chief of the technological branch of the United States Bureau of Mines, will speak on "Pulse of Today and Tomorrow" and Frank F. Fowle, president of the Western Society of Engineers, will talk on "The Nation's Power Supply."

WELLS WILL LEAD RED CROSS DRIVE

Quota of 30,000 New Members on Roll Call Set for Campaign.

Jere A. Wells, superintendent of Fulton county schools, has accepted the chairmanship of the roll call for the Atlanta chapter of the American Red Cross, General J. H. Reeves, secretary, announced.

The Roll Call, or annual membership campaign, will begin about March 28. The quota accepted by this district is 30,000 new members.

The new Roll Call chairman is well known in Atlanta and Fulton county for his leadership in civic activities. He is a member of the Atlanta Tuberculosis Association, past president of the Georgia Education Association, a member of the Civitan Club and director of the Atlanta Motor Club.

"There is always work for the Red Cross to do, whether in time of emergency or not," Mr. Wells said in accepting the appointment. "The Red Cross is, of course, always prepared for any emergency. This organization does, however, a great work all the time."

"I realize that the Red Cross is doing a great work, both in Atlanta and all over our country. The Red Cross sees the great opportunity for service in Atlanta and I hope to give my wholehearted support to their efforts."

POSTAL RECEIPTS SHOW INCREASE

Improved Business Indicated in Figures.

Atlanta's postal barometer indicates business was much better during the first month of 1938 than it was during the first month of 1937, Postmaster Lon Livingston declared yesterday.

"People talk of business recession but Atlanta postal receipts—which give a cross section of all business, little and big—increased 1 1-2 per cent over January last year," the postmaster said.

Postal receipts for January, 1938, were $299,037.81 as compared with $283,073.61 for the initial month of 1937, Livingston announced.

RESERVE OFFICERS GIVEN PROMOTIONS

First Lieutenant Wiley Roy Deal, chemistry reserve, of Donovan, Ga., has been promoted to captain, fourth corps area headquarters announced yesterday.

Other promotions included: Maurice Mitchell Hallum Jr., of Powers Ferry road, R. F. D. 1, Dunwoody; Horace Thurston Clary, of Dalton, and James Berttram, of Hardwick, all appointed second lieutenants in the infantry reserve. Donald C. Johnson, of Atlanta, was appointed second lieutenant in the infantry reserve.

Dr. J. C. Norris Urges Maternal Nursing

The increasing unwillingness of American mothers to nurse their babies is causing a national dietary problem of disturbing proportions, Dr. J. C. Norris, of the Emory University department of public health and preventive medicine, said yesterday in New York.

Dr. Norris spoke before a combined annual meeting of the Metropolitan Certified Milk Producers' Association and the Certified Milk Producers' Association of America. He said in part:

"There are many reasons why a mother decides not to nurse her baby. But if each mother knew what her milk meant to the baby's future health, I am sure she should make the sacrifice for the baby's sake."

Dr. Norris is chairman of the Fulton County Medical Milk Commission.

'Terrible Pull' at Heart Brings $5 For Best Photo-Tip of the Week

Mrs. J. E. Wilkins Wins Top Award for Telling The Constitution of Mother Who, With Eight Children, Faced Eviction; $1 Prizes Announced.

Mrs. J. E. Wilkins, of 931 Central avenue, Hapeville, felt a "terrible pull" at her heart last week. She learned a 24-year-old Egan Park mother of eight faced eviction from her one-room house because the rent couldn't be paid.

She realized that on the surface it made a good news story and possibly underneath there was an even better story. So, she called the Photo-Tip Editor of The Constitution and as a result the family has been cared for and Mrs. Wilkins won the weekly $5 first prize offered by The Constitution for the best picture tip received.

But Mrs. Wilkins wasn't the only reader with "a nose for news" last week.

After 50 years at the throttle of a Southern Railway switch engine in the Atlanta yards, during which he drove the engine 2,000,000 miles but never left the city, J. A. Oliver retired.

And his wife added $1 to her pocketbook change. She called the Photo Tip Editor and told him about her husband and his retirement. A photographer was on hand to catch Oliver as he stepped from his engine for the last time.

H. T. Brent, of 1218 Epworth street, looked into the sky out Fort McPherson way last week and that tip brought him a $1 photo tip award. He saw a man and woman, steeplejacks, painting the water tank and radio poles at the fort. They were about 200 feet above the ground working contentedly.

U. S. LIQUOR TAXES DECLINE IN GEORGIA

209 Arrested in State During January for Dry Law Violations.

While federal liquor taxes collected in Georgia during 1937 dropped $31,386 as compared with the previous year, Alcohol Tax Unit men seized more mash and made more arrests in Georgia in January than in any of the other three states of the southeastern district, it was announced yesterday.

Total liquor tax collections in 1937 in Georgia were $684,097 while in 1936 they were $715,453. Nineteen states paid less liquor tax than did "dry" Georgia. Beer excise taxes provided the largest amount of the tax, $510,692. Next largest was $95,112 collected from still owners, rectifiers and retail and wholesale dealers in spirits. Brewers paid $41,235 occupational and license taxes.

Two hundred and nine persons were charged with violating internal revenue laws in Georgia during January. Alabama was second with 171 arrests and Florida agents reported 115 arrests while South Carolina trailed with 91.

Agents in Georgia seized 149 stills with a 63,015 gallon capacity and destroyed 53,635 gallons of mash.

ATLANTA SYMPHONY TO OPEN SEASON

Philharmonic Society Will Present First Concert Under Lindner.

Opening its 1938 season, the Atlanta Philharmonic Society presents its symphony orchestra in concert at the Atlanta theater at 8:15 o'clock tonight.

The orchestra, under the direction of George F. Lindner, has been in rehearsal since October, and will present a program including works from Beethoven, Schumann, Mendelssohn and Mozart. The works to be presented are "G Minor Symphony," "Coriolanus," "Fingal's Cave" and "Concerto in A Minor."

The choral unit of the society will not appear on tonight's program. The chorus, under the direction of John Hoffman, will present its first 1938 concert at a date to be announced. Advance ticket sales indicate that the performance tonight will be to a capacity audience, leaders said.

GEORGE P. TIESLER LAST RITES HELD

Greenwood Burial for 4th Corps Finance Clerk.

Funeral services for Master Sergeant George P. Tiesler, 56, who died Saturday in Little Rock, Ark., were held yesterday at the graveside in Greenwood cemetery, with Chaplain Orville E. Fisher, of Fort McPherson, officiating. A military escort accompanied the body to the cemetery.

Well known in Atlanta, Sergeant Tiesler had served as chief clerk of the finance department of the fourth corps area headquarters here for about 18 years.

Residents Will Discuss Morningside Bus Plans

Residents of Morningside, Johnson Estates, Lenox Park, and Highland Park will hold a mass meeting at 8 o'clock tonight in the Morningside school to discuss proposed changes in the Morningside bus service.

Dr. Stephen C. Redd, who announced the meeting, said he expected a Georgia Power Company official to be present at the discussion.

HUGH L. BROWN DIES; RITES THIS MORNING

Druggist, Veteran of World War, Resident of This City 13 Years.

Hugh L. Brown, a druggist, died yesterday at his residence, 456 Whiteford avenue, N. E., after an illness of several days.

A native of Carrollton, he had lived in Atlanta for the past 13 years. He was a World War veteran, and a member of the Carrollton Baptist church. He was 49 years of age.

Surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Henri Honrath, of Jacksonville, Fla., and Miss Kate Brown, of Atlanta; three brothers, Frank Brown, of Atlanta; Samuel Brown, of Villa Rica, Ga., and Paul B. Brown, of Carrollton.

Funeral services will be conducted at 10 o'clock this morning at the chapel of Awtry & Lowndes, with Dr. Lester A. Brown and Dr. Wallace Rogers officiating. Burial will be in the Carrollton cemetery at 2 o'clock.

THE REED SURVEY

Dr. Thomas H. Reed, outstanding expert on local governmental systems, has made his report and recommendations on the Atlanta and Fulton county governments. The report, in 85,000 words, summarizes the results of a six-month survey conducted under the direction of Dr. Reed and covers every department and function of both city and county administrations.

The document contains numerous recommendations and suggestions for sweeping changes in the local governmental set-up and should receive earnest study, not only by the community's leaders but by every citizen.

The extent to which Atlanta and Fulton county take advantage of the work done by Dr. Reed and his associates will depend largely upon the degree of interest displayed by the public.

Unquestionably there are many ways that the local government can be improved, both as to efficiency and economy, by modernization. In many phases, these set-ups have not been changed for a century. There have been some changes but the basic governmental structure has remained little altered.

Other cities have progressed governmentally in line with progress in other human interests and if Atlanta and the county are to remain in the forefront of civic communities, it is necessary that they keep step with the municipal procession.

Dr. Reed and his associates have spent several months in making a careful, analytical study of the governmental needs of Atlanta and Fulton county. The report covers the situation in the most minute detail.

The recommendations are those of a man who has won a nation-wide reputation as a doctor to sick and ailing governments, and to other governments which, while fairly efficient, were open to improvement. In every city in which his recommendations have been given a fair try-out there has been an immediate and lasting improvement in public service.

Too many times in the past the recommendations for capable governmental reforms have been made by grand juries, business associations, and other competent and capable groups only to be pigeonholed with not only no action taken on them but practically no attention of any kind paid to them.

This must not happen in the case of the Reed report. Whether or not its recommendations, in part or in whole, are adopted, certainly, careful and detailed study should be given to every suggestion made in the report, which was secured at large expense through combined appropriations by the city and county governments and the Chamber of Commerce.

Atlanta has long since outgrown its swaddling clothes as a city. If, as Dr. Reed holds, our governmental set-ups are in many respects still of a swaddling clothes nature, this should be established definitely and once for all for the benefit of every man, woman and child living in the city.

The opportunity is now possible for Atlanta to establish whether its governmental methods are modern and properly fitted to the community's needs. All that is necessary is that the report of Dr. Reed, whose ability as a governmental expert is unquestioned, be studied, clause by clause, and his findings viewed in the light of the intimate knowledge of local conditions held by the public leaders and the people of the city and county.

ATLANTA TO SAVANNAH BY AIR

Despite the advances made of recent years in air mail service in the southeast, there is not yet, strangely enough, any direct air mail between Georgia's two largest cities, Atlanta and Savannah. Air mail between these two points must be routed either through Charleston or Jacksonville, an apparently absurd and unjustifiable "longest way 'round."

Both cities possess splendid airport facilities. Candler Field, at Atlanta, is recognized as the aviation hub of the southeast and from it radiate air mail routes to the north, mid-west, west and south. There is, also, the direct route south into Florida.

The field at Savannah is one of the finest of any in Georgia or Florida, according to Phillips Moore, district adviser of airports for the United States Bureau of Air Commerce.

The federal government has developed landing fields at Milledgeville, Swainsboro and Statesboro, all on a direct line between this city and Savannah. Thus there is ample provision for emergency fields en route and, even, for flag stops for the air mail.

Traffic between the two cities by rail and by highway is always heavy and they are closely linked in business interest.

Savannah, chief seaport of the South Atlantic, is on the regular air schedule from New York to Miami, via Charleston, but, without the link to Atlanta, is now deprived of direct air service towards the west, southwest or northwest, all of which would be provided if the Atlanta-Savannah route were put in service.

There is no air mail link in this section which would serve business more widely or importantly and, by every argument of logic, the service should be inaugurated at the earliest possible moment.

Savannah is launching an active campaign, under the fine leadership of Mayor Robert M. Hitch, to secure the service. Atlanta will perform an important service both for her own interests and those of the southeastern portion of the state by joining hands with the Savannah group in an aggressive movement for the establishment of an air mail route to the sister Georgia city on the coast.

BOY SCOUT WEEK

Beginning today and extending through Saturday, the nation will observe Boy Scout Week. This is the 28th anniversary of the founding of this movement in America. The 28th birthday of an organization of boyhood that has, probably, contributed as much or more than any other to the manhood of its members in later life.

Boy Scouts are usually associated in the public mind with small hiking parties of lads attired in strange costume. In groups of boys who center their out-of-school activities in mysterious goings on within "Scout Huts" and who come before the public eye as aids to traffic police during Christmas holidays and at other periods of crowded street conditions. There is a widely accepted belief that every Boy Scout in the nation spends much time watching for elderly ladies who desire help in crossing the street, in order that they may mark up a daily "good turn."

Boy Scouting, however, means much more than is to be seen by this service demonstration. It means, if you would read between the lines, the building of good citizenship for the nation. In the Scout Oath and Law itself is found the basic precepts for worthy manhood. Scouts learn to keep, at all times, a cheerful spirit, to be prepared to accept responsibility, to be helpful to others and to acquire a self-confidence based upon trustworthiness, loyalty, courtesy and cleanliness—all tools of manly integrity.

Scouting may appear to be strictly a boy's game, but its results are seen in men fitted to bear a man's part in the affairs of the community of the nation and of the world.

TRAGEDY UNDER THE OAKS

There is something particularly shocking in the death at the hands of a skulking murderer of the rector of Christ church, on Sea Island, off the Georgia coast at Brunswick.

The setting for the tragedy is so unsuited for violent crime. It violates every conception of the fitness of things for death to stalk a victim under the shadows of the age-old oaks, moss draped, that stand in silent majesty, dreaming of the days when Charles Wesley preached beneath their spreading boughs and founded Christ church.

In the churchyard surrounding the ancient edifice are century-old graves, their stones weather-stained and gray with time, where lie the bones of ancient pioneers, those who came to the new land in the time of its birth and established here the justice and the integrity and the church of their fathers of the old lands.

There is a spirit of eternal peace that hovers over all the scene, a sense of hushed quiet as though here at least the Father who leads His children to new lands has provided one sanctuary where the troubled souls of men may find rest and forgetfulness of the worries of every day.

That a lethal shot should shatter this brooding calm and carry death to the rector of that church-sanctuary, shocks every sense of propriety and fitness in every heart ever attuned to the beauty and the peace of the oak-shaded spot.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

RICHBERG SEEN VICTOR WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—During the past two weeks, a minor retro-lution has taken place within the White House palace politics. To put it bluntly, the trust-busting program of Mr. Robert H. Jackson and his powerful left-wing allies has been knocked galley-west by the hot gospel of production planning, Mr. Donald Richberg.

This is, of course, only an interim report on an invisible battle. At the moment, Mr. Richberg has the brilliant assistant attorney general and his cronies in the White House inner circle hanging on the ropes. But they may stage a comeback tomorrow. Political necessities and the President's intentions are too unpredictable; it is entirely possible that the temporarily triumphant Mr. Richberg will be sent down for the count in the next round.

SPOILS OF CONQUEST Evanescent though they may be, the following results of Mr. Richberg's triumph are worth recording:

1. Even if it contains some recommendations for immediate anti-monopoly action, the proposed special presidential message on business practices will be no such trumpet call to a trust-busting crusade as was first planned.

2. A request for a congressional investigation of business habits, monopolistic and otherwise, is likely to be the most important feature of the message. The message is expected to be rather vague.

3. Instead of early this month, the message may not be ready until late March or early April.

THE COUP D'ETAT Although the President's trust-busting plans or lack of them pale in importance in these days of international danger, the palace coup d'etat engineered by Mr. Richberg has considerable significance. Since the time of his court bill's presentation last year, the President has leaned more and more heavily on Mr. Jackson and his left-wing friends. By this fall, theirs were the predominant voices in the White House councils. And now, if Mr. Richberg makes his coup d'etat stick, they have suffered their first major reverse.

Just now Washington is suffering from a whispering campaign, to the effect that Mr. Jackson and the left-wingers have been exiled from the presidential presence and lodged in the dog-house. This is nonsense. They are as much consulted as ever, and, when there is a specific job to be done, they are asked to do it.

They have suffered their first big reverse for two very simple reasons. The first reason is the depression. The left-wingers are brilliant. They are also daring. They wish to act promptly and spectacularly. For a couple of weeks, they persuaded the President to want to act also. But the depression has upset the President. He is disturbed, uncertain, unsure of the correct approach. His state of mind naturally inclines him to temporary inertia. And the second reason is the cleverness of Mr. Richberg.

RICHIEU RICHBERG At the beginning of January, when Mr. Richberg began slipping in the back door of the White House, he found the President sold on a trust-busting crusade as an answer to those who cried out, "Aha, a Roosevelt depression!" Very shrewdly, Mr. Richberg avoided any frontal attack. Instead of denouncing trust-busting, he presented his persuasive arguments for planned production. His best ally was the President's own nostalgia for the NRA. With the greatest difficulty, Mr. Jackson and his friends warded off a magnificent NRA revival. This was a point lost for Mr. Richberg. His answer was the suggestion for a congressional investigation of all business practices.

Thus, with something of the astuteness of a minor league Richelieu, Mr. Richberg cut the ground from under his enemies in the palace. If there was to be a general investigation, recommendations for immediate action became hard to defend. The left-wingers' proposals to gut the patent laws, to strengthen the Federal Trade Commission and so forth went by the board. And now the left-wingers are fighting hard for some lesser "streamlinings" of the anti-trust laws themselves.

THE NEXT ROUND The ironies of the situation are best displayed in the tug of war over Mr. Jackson's successor as assistant attorney general. Mr. Jackson's elevation to the solicitor generalship was first arranged by the trust-busting group, both as a public testimonial to their champion and because they frankly expected to increase their influence in the Justice Department by putting a man of their own in his place. Benjamin V. Cohen himself was talked of for the job.

Now, Attorney General Homer S. Cummings has a candidate, and Mr. Richberg has several. Only the left-wingers are pushing nobody. They now believe that the best they can hope for is to destroy the other candidates one by one, and bring the President to a man of their choice by a process of elimination. The tug-of-war is the next round in the palace struggle. And it is immensely important, since it hardly matters how the anti-trust laws are changed, if the assistant attorney general, the man who must enforce them, is limp and inept.

What's in A Deck of Cards?

Mrs. Josie McLendon, one of this column's most valued friends, sends in a story taken from a newspaper clipping that has been yellowing as the years pass, in an old scrapbook of hers, started in 1898.

The story is about a private soldier who was arrested on a charge of playing cards during a service in church. The soldier was one of a group taken to the service under the command of a sergeant.

When the preacher read the prayer and took his text, those who had Bibles were told to open them, but this soldier had neither Bible nor Book of Common Prayer. Instead, he pulled out a deck of cards and spread them before him. He did nothing with them save look at first one and then another. The sergeant ordered him to put them up, saying church was no place for playing cards, but the soldier refused. So, when the service was over the constable arrested the man and he was taken before the mayor of the town for trial.

In His Own Defense.

"Well, soldier," said the mayor, "what have you to say for yourself?"

"Much, sir, I hope," he replied. "Very good. Let's hear it. If it isn't a good defense I will punish you severely."

"I have been," said the soldier, "about six weeks on the march. I have neither Bible nor Book of Common Prayer. I have nothing but a pack of cards and I'll satisfy your worship as to the purity of my intentions."

Spreading the cards before the mayor, he pointed to the ace:

"When I see the ace it reminds me there is but one God. When I see the deuce it reminds me of Father and Son. When I see the trey it reminds me of the Father, Son and Holy Ghost."

The four-spot reminds me of the four evangelists, Matthew, Mark, Luke and John. The five reminds me of the five wise virgins that trimmed their lamps—there were ten, but five were wise and five were foolish and were shut out. The six reminds me that in six days the Lord Made Heaven and earth.

The seventh reminds me that on the seventh day He rested from the great work He had created and hallowed it.

"The eight recalls to mind the eight righteous persons who were saved when God destroyed the world, namely, Noah and his wife with three sons and their wives."

"The nine reminds me of the nine lepers cleansed by our Saviour. There were nine out of ten who never returned thanks. The ten is reminding of the ten commandments which God handed down to Moses on tables of stone."

The King of Heaven.

"The King to me represents the King of Heaven, God Almighty, while the Queen is the Queen of Sheba, as wise a woman as Solomon," whom she visited, was a man.

"Well," said the mayor, "you have given a good description of all the cards save one, the knave."

"I will give a good description of that, too, if you won't be angry," responded the soldier.

"I won't," said the mayor, "provided you don't name me the knave."

"The greatest knave I know," then said the soldier, "is the constable who brought me here."

"When I count the spots on a deck of cards," he continued, "I find 365, as many as the days in a year. When I count the cards in a pack, they are 52, the number of weeks in a year. There are 13 tricks for the weeks in a quarter. So you see, sir, a deck of cards serves me for Bible, Book of Common Prayer and almanac."

"IF"

NEW YORK.—I suppose that if that little dicker, which I suspect not to have been entirely honorable, between one-legged Pieter Stuyvesant and the English admiral had not taken place and New York were still New Amsterdam today, flags and bunting and orange-streamers would be out on Broadway and Fifth avenue in celebration of the birth over in Holland of a little Princess of Orange. A writer with a "spiritual" imagination and a keen historical sense, like Winston Churchill for instance, or Doctor Hendrik Willem Van Loon, could write us a most entertaining and amusing book on the subject of this big "if." Suppose New York had remained Dutch?

Would it have taken the same colossal flight? Or perhaps bigger? Would it have been so tolerant? Old Pieter wasn't you know. I doubt, too, if the Dutch would have taken the same view of the negro question as the northerners. They have pretty much the same attitude on that subject as the old southerners even today in South Africa. Had New York remained Dutch there would not have been a Civil War. There might have been a war between two governments, a Dutch one and an English one, for in that case America would have been split up under various colonial powers.

It would be amusing too to hear Mr. LaGuardia speak Dutch. He does pretty well in Yiddish, I am told, but Dutch is even a little more exacting on a delicate Italian throat like his. Or would he have been there at all? Would it not be some Mijneer van Dyck or Mijneer van Renselaar burrowing it over the Bronx and vicinity?

Without profit such speculations might be, but I know of many duller things to pass a long winter evening.

We hear that all Holland is rejoicing over the birth of Beatrix, Princess of Orange. This might seem an anomaly in our days where all phones are shaking and a good baker's dozen has just been carried down the stream of time like so much jetsum and flotsam. But a Princess of Orange is different.

She bears a mighty name. She represents a link with a glorious past: Orange, one of the great spirits of all time. Rich and powerful, he became poor, sacrificed his wealth in espousal of the cause of a poor and oppressed people. A Spanish assassin's bullet struck him down. But wherever and whenever the heroes of freedom of conscience and of freedom of religion are mentioned, the name of William the Silent cannot be omitted. Holland and Orange, the two names stand together, a small people that rose to greatness and a family that held high the torch of human freedom.

ORATORS.

I seem to have started something in this column the other day when I called attention to the list of seven great orators selected by Harvard University and designated by busts in one of the Harvard buildings, adding the suggestion that it would be difficult to select seven present-day orators on whom everyone could agree. I boldly started out with a list, getting as far as five names—all living persons.

Numerous communications indicate a lively interest in this subject of orators, dead and living. One man writes, "The day of great orators has not passed and never will." He does not agree with my list entirely, though he says he could not fully agree with his own list.

I suggested Dr. George W. Truett, Senator William E. Borah, Bishop Charles Candler, Evangeline Booth and President Franklin D. Roosevelt—all living persons. If I had entered the wider field of orators who have died, I certainly would have included Benjamin Harvey Hill, Henry W. Grady, John B. Gordon, Booker T. Washington, Woodrow Wilson, Theodore Roosevelt, John C. Calhoun, Daniel Webster, Phillips Brooks, George Whitfield, John Wesley, Jonathan Edwards, Abraham Lincoln, Robert E. Lee, Dwight L. Moody et al.

Benjamin Harvey Hill has been mentioned more than any George W. Truett in the list of orators. Dr. George W. Truett leads the list of preachers. Dr. William Oslar leads the list of British preachers, with John Wesley running a close second.

I was interested to see that a number of people named Miss Martha Berry as a great orator, two of them adding, "an eloquence of gentleness and sincerity." One man says, "Samuel Gompers was the greatest orator I ever heard, and I do not belong to organized labor." Another correspondent writes, "You mentioned Evangeline Booth. I have never heard Miss Booth, but I did hear her father, and I would name him as one of my seven greatest orators." Still another letter, written by a woman, says, "The Rev. Sam Jones was the greatest orator I ever heard." I am glad to have a letter from a prominent judge saying, "The Rev. Prince Bryant, for many years pastor of Wheat Street Baptist church in Atlanta, was the greatest orator I ever heard."

You Get Just What You Pay For, And Nature's Price Is Cash in Advance

By ROBERT QUILLEN.

Some years ago a pair of brown thrashers built their nest in a water oak 20 feet from our front porch where we could watch their domestic arrangements.

They worked hard building the nest, probably expending more energy in proportion to their size than men expend in building a house. When the work was finished, there was an interval of rest and song; but as soon as the young birds left the shell, the parents began to work themselves ragged.

They were up and busy with the first gray light of dawn, long before plowmen got to the field, and they were still wearily bringing home the bacon in the dusk of evening when no flyer would have attempted a landing without field lights.

Until that time we had taken it for granted that man alone worked for his living, while other animals got everything "free." But a little research makes it apparent that no creature gets anything in this world without paying for it.

Moreover, this rule doesn't apply to bread alone but to everything that makes life good or bad. What you pay for you get, whether you want it or not, for nature doesn't consider your desires but only the price you have paid.

When certain trouble comes to a man, his friends say: "Well, he asked for it." As a matter of fact, he did more. He paid the usual price for it and nature took his order and made prompt delivery.

Consider the matter of happiness in the home, which concerns almost everybody.

There may be unhappy homes in which one person is meaner than a rattlesnake in shedding season and the other a meek and long-suffering angel who never is at fault. There may be, but we doubt it.

If there is warfare, or chronic pouting, each thinks the other at fault, and both are right. Each gets what he pays for, and he can get something different at any time by paying a different price.

Do you desire pleasant smiles, friendly words, kind little acts of service? Well, what are they worth to you? What will you pay? As a matter of fact, they come cheap. The price is only friendliness, thoughtfulness and unselfishness in small matters.

Nature's business is cash in advance, but it is always fair. You may at times think you have been cheated, but a careful checking up will show that you missed a payment or paid in the wrong coin.

THIS MORNING

By JOHN TEMPLE GRAVES II.

"Be not careless in deeds nor confused in words..."

Cats may look at kings and laymen at lawyers, we take it. As a layman it seems to us that the flaw in Justice Hugo Black's idea that corporations should not be considered "persons" and given the protection of the fourteenth amendment is not in his reasoning, but in his animus. Everybody knows the amendment was not passed with corporations in mind and that, in spite of the fiction of personality, a corporation differs from a person in many vital respects, having been created in fact for the purpose of saving "persons" from complete responsibility for their acts.

What we find amiss in Justice Black's contention is that it is obviously born of his dislike of corporations and his sense of being at war with them. While he was a legislator, such a point of view was tenable, whether right or wrong. But as a member of the highest judicial tribunal, it is not tenable. No justice of the supreme court of the United States has a right to hate corporations and put that hate into his legal decisions. No more than such a justice has a right to love corporations and let that love influence his decisions.

Perhaps when the science of "semantics" becomes an art, it will no longer be possible for people to "state corporations" because they will realize that the word covers more than can logically be hated in one consistent hate. There are little corporations and big ones, well-behaved ones and wicked ones, corporations owned by a great number of people and organizations owned by a few, family corporations, employee corporations, etc., etc. You've got to call your shots and if you go in for hating all that goes under the general term you miss fire. Stuart Chase, who has taken up this semantic science and popularized it in a book called "The Tyranny of Words," is helping us to think more clearly by avoiding word labels that are too long, labels that include more than we mean or understand.

Most of us, if we are honest, admit that today we employ glibly such terms as "Communism," "Fascism," "monopoly," "Jeffersonianism," "states' rights," "democracy," "Americanism," "corporate control," "the consumer," "civil liberties," "the south," "the capitalist system," "liberty" and the like without a very clear or common meaning. We may mean one thing and our listeners or readers another. We may have a specific thing in mind while others may have a general. We may know exactly what we are talking about or know only vaguely. "Semantics" is the science of the interpretation of word signs, we are told, the clearing of channels of communication between men by making the words they use more precisely intelligible.

$650,000 WILL GO TO TEACHERS TODAYState, Using All Funds, Only Able To Meet Half of Pay Roll.

Checks totaling approximately $650,000 will be sent out today to pay 21,000 school teachers, Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, said last night.

The money, one-half of the monthly pay roll of $1,300,000, ordinarily mailed January 29 to pay teachers, represents all funds in the state treasury at the present time, Dr. Collins said.

He said the state had been unable to pay January salaries because collections from which revenue for teachers' salaries is derived have been slow.

Dr. Collins said at the present time there are no funds in the treasury to meet salaries for February, due February 20, and for the last half of January, but added expected increase of collections in March probably would make up for January and February payments.

"Collections are always slow in January and February, but usually exceed the monthly pay roll in March," he explained.

In a majority of counties, teachers have not gone without salaries, it was said. Under the seven-month school program, counties which were to pay teachers' salaries in May have used the May funds to make up January salaries, Dr. Collins said.

"Only in a few rural counties have teachers gone entirely unpaid," he said.

He reiterated Governor Rivers' hope to pay off teachers without borrowing money. The state has the power to borrow up to $3,000,000 to pay teachers in event of an emergency.

Preparations to rescue the marooned scientists went forward despite the tragedy. The government planned to press into service its most powerful icebreaker in an effort to rescue the men.

The icebreaker Murman, equipped with two airplanes and food enough for six months, will be dispatched from Murmansk to join two other icebreakers attempting to reach the men. The planes are equipped with skis to land on ice and one of them also carries floats that it can land on water.

The headquarters of the northern sea route administration, admitting grave fears for the lives of the scientists and their little dog Jolly, said its last contact with them was 24 hours ago when Ivan Papanin, leader of the group, reported that they were packing their supplies and equipment.

Transfer indicated. The equipment, Papanin reported, was being loaded on sleds, indicating that the group sought to transfer to another larger floe.

The storm in the Greenland sea, between Greenland and Spitzbergen, prevented two Russian icebreakers, pushing their steel-nosed hulls through ice cakes, from reaching the floe.

One of the ships was 150 miles west and southwest of the marooned party with two airplanes, a dog sled and other rescue equipment. The other was 240 miles from the scene, further south.

LIBERALS OF HOUSE ASK PAY-HOUR BILLStronger Capital Gains Levy Also Urged by 30 in Call on President.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—More than 30 house liberals jointly urged upon President Roosevelt today a legislative program calling for a wage-hour bill, retention of the much-criticized undivided profits tax and a stronger capital gains tax.

Led to the White House by Representative Maverick, Democrat, Texas, they asked, in addition, a "simple direct farm bill" assuring farm prices equaling the cost of production at least, and a permanent public works program capable of absorbing all the able-bodied unemployed.

"The President listened attentively," Maverick said, when he distributed copies of the group's proposals to newspapermen, "and then made a general comment."

"Was it sympathetic?" a reporter asked.

"He's always sympathetic to me," the heavy-voiced Texan replied.

G. H. DALEY DIES; SPORTS EDITOR 68

Herald Tribune Executive Dean of New York.

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—(Tuesday)—George Herbert Daley, of the Herald Tribune, known as the dean of New York sports editors, died of a throat infection early today at the age of 68.

He had been ill several days with a recurrence of the ailment that struck him twice previously.

His 40-year career as sports editor and commentator began after his graduation from Union College, Schenectady, N. Y., with a civil engineering degree, when he joined the New York Evening Post.

After serving on the Post under the famous Charles B. Sawyer, Daley became sports editor of the Tribune in 1900 and went to the old World in a similar capacity in 1916. When the World suspended publication in 1931, he joined the staff of the World Telegram, after six months going to the Herald Tribune as sports editor.

Charges dismissed against patrolman.

Charges against Patrolman J. L. (Eddie) Hughes were dismissed last night by the unanimous vote of city council's police committee.

Patrolman Hughes was accused of conduct unbecoming an officer, the formal charges alleging that he accepted fees from negro undertakers while assigned to Grady hospital. His trial was postponed from Friday night when the committee discharged Patrolman A. Douglas Poole and suspended Detective T. B. Clark for 29 days.

The committee also added four supernumeraries to the regular police force to fill existing vacancies. Added to the force are W. J. Smith, W. A. Beatty, W. E. Petty and A. C. Potts.

SAVANNAH MAY GET ATLANTA AIR LINKBranch Assures Delegation Plea for Route Will Be Considered.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Second Assistant Postmaster General Harlee Branch promised today to consider a proposed direct air mail route between Savannah and Atlanta.

Mayor Robert M. Hitch, of Savannah, headed a delegation which laid the proposal before Branch. He asserted Savannah, with completion of work on its airport, would have a field second to none in the south.

Representatives Ramspeck and Peterson, Georgia Democrats, and Senator Russell, Democrat, Georgia, supported Hitch's plea.

Others accompanying Hitch to the conference were Andrew A. Smith, Chatham county commissioner; John J. Bouhan, Chatham county attorney, and Major George C. Heyward, chairman of the Savannah council's airport committee.

The mayor said he was "hopeful" his request for the direct route would be favored. He said Branch predicted a bill now pending in congress, creating an aviation board with jurisdiction over routes, would be passed and permit reshuffling of present routes.

"We had a most satisfactory conference," Hitch said. "I think we convinced the department Savannah is entitled to an outlet through Atlanta and to more satisfactory schedules on existing routes."

CAPONE'S ATTORNEY ASKS JAIL TERM CUTWants Gangster Saved From Serving Extra Year.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—(AP)—Counsel for Alphonse Capone appealed to the supreme court today in an effort to bring the Chicago gangster out of his involuntary retirement next January 19.

Abraham Teitelbaum, the attorney, asked the tribunal to save Capone from a sentence of one year in the Cook county jail after he completes the ten-year term he is serving now in Alcatraz prison.

The jail sentence, like the prison term, is for income tax evasion. Teitelbaum contended his client had been placed in double jeopardy in violation of the fifth amendment of the constitution.

Allowing for a deduction as a reward for good behavior, the sentence Capone is serving now will expire next January 19.

CHECK THAT COLD IN THE DRY STAGE!

It's Much Easier Stopped in the First or Dry Stage Than in the Second or Third Stage!

A cold ordinarily goes through three stages.

(1) The Dry Stage, the first 24 hours.

(2) The Watery Secretion Stage, from 1 to 3 days.

(3) The Mucous Secretion Stage. A cold is twice as easy to stop in the first stage as in the second or third.

In fact, to let a cold run beyond the first stage may be to invite trouble.

The Thing to Take! The preparation you want to take for all colds—any cold—is Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ tablets).

Bromo Quinine tablets are expressly a cold treatment! They are not a "cure-all." They are made for colds and nothing else.

Bromo Quinine tablets are internal treatment and a cold is an internal infection!

4 Effects in One! Bromo Quinine tablets do four important things in the treatment of a cold.

First, they open the bowels.

Second, they check the infection in the system.

Third, they relieve the headache and fever.

Fourth, they tone the system and help fortify against further attack.

These four effects are what you want in a cold medicine.

Your Safe Bet! Bromo Quinine tablets may be taken with confidence. They have been on the market for over 40 years and are the world's largest selling cold tablet.

Bromo Quinine tablets come in 35c and 60c sizes. The 60c size is the better "buy." Almost 20 per cent more for your money.

When you ask for Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine (LBQ tablets), insist upon getting what you ask for. It's your money you're spending!

started and worked excellently during the course of the flight.

State funerals for victims have been ordered by the Soviet government. The families of the victims have been awarded 10,000 rubles each and life pensions.

"The dirigible was piloted by Captain Gudovantsev. It was constructed in 1934 with a volume of 19,000 cubic meters, length 105 meters and diameter 18 meters."

Preparations to rescue the marooned scientists went forward despite the tragedy. The government planned to press into service its most powerful icebreaker in an effort to rescue the men.

The icebreaker Murman, equipped with two airplanes and food enough for six months, will be dispatched from Murmansk to join two other icebreakers attempting to reach the men. The planes are equipped with skis to land on ice and one of them also carries floats that it can land on water.

The headquarters of the northern sea route administration, admitting grave fears for the lives of the scientists and their little dog Jolly, said its last contact with them was 24 hours ago when Ivan Papanin, leader of the group, reported that they were packing their supplies and equipment.

Transfer indicated. The equipment, Papanin reported, was being loaded on sleds, indicating that the group sought to transfer to another larger floe.

The storm in the Greenland sea, between Greenland and Spitzbergen, prevented two Russian icebreakers, pushing their steel-nosed hulls through ice cakes, from reaching the floe.

One of the ships was 150 miles west and southwest of the marooned party with two airplanes, a dog sled and other rescue equipment. The other was 240 miles from the scene, further south.

GUARD DEMOCRACY, ROOSEVELT ASSERTS

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP) President Roosevelt said tonight that by means of youth movements American democracy would be safeguarded.

Congratulating the Boy Scouts of America on their twenty-eighth birthday, the chief executive said in a radio talk:

"It is my conviction that, through work with our youth, we shall secure the greatest assurance of maintaining our democracy in the face of those forces which advocate forms of government not consistent with our cherished American traditions.

"And the strength of this youth movement will develop in exact proportion to the support accorded it by communities which are interested in preserving our democracy."

The President said "we should be especially thankful for a youth movement which seeks to preserve such simple fundamentals as physical strength, mental alertness and moral straightness—a movement to support the ideals of peace."

Candid Cameraman Snaps Councilmen at Session Considering Dr. Reed's Report

City Councilman W. T. Knight wasn't aware of The Constitution's candid cameraman when this photograph was snapped at yesterday's council session. The group referred Dr. Thomas H. Reed's report to the ordinance and legislative committee.

oughly comprehensive report and it should be considered carefully, unselfishly and non-politically," he continued. "It behooves the mayor and council to take some action, and I think matters of this kind should be referred to special committees."

Couch contended the survey deals with charter amendments and made a motion that it be referred to the ordinance and legislative committee. Over the protests of Councilman White, members of council voted to refer it to this committee.

Councilman Frank Wilson introduced a resolution asking that $99 be appropriated out of the contingent fund to provide each of the 18 members of council with a copy of the report. The resolution was adopted, but later a similar resolution was approved requesting that the reports be furnished free by Dr. Reed. The latter resolution was introduced by Aldermen I. Gloer Hailey and Roy Callaway and Councilman Howard Haile.

On motion of Councilman C. M. (Mac) Bolen, council adopted the traffic plan of Lieutenant Frank Krenzl with little discussion. The plan will require an outlay of approximately $3,000. Appropriation of this sum was left to the finance committee.

The original plan called for a traffic engineer after the first two years at a cost of $10,000 per year. This phase of the program will not concern the city at present, however.

Principal points included in the program are:

1. Division of the city into four districts for the purpose of investigation.

2. Placing of a lieutenant in

While other council members discuss the pros and cons of Dr. Reed's report, City Purchasing Agent Lloyd A. Walker turns his attention to other papers. Council side-tracked a resolution calling for the appointment of a special committee.

Informality is the keynote of council's sessions. The cameraman found City Attorney Jack Savage studying legal papers and smoking a cigaret. When a question of law is to be decided, the city attorney gets the call to give a quick decision.

charge of an accident prevention bureau under Captain Jack Malcom and the use of trained men in all accident squad cars.

3. Recommendation that another fire-aid class be established immediately for training these men.

4. Equipment of cars with film and flashlight bulbs for taking pictures with the provision that sufficient facilities be provided for developing and printing these pictures.

5. Increase of motorcycle squad from 26 to 50 men. Purchase of 24 motorcycles was recommended.

6. Placing of three three-wheeled motorcycles in downtown area to enforce parking regulations.

7. Recommendation that an order be rescinded requiring both drivers in an accident to be brought before the judge.

8. Maintenance of a separate traffic prevention office.

9. Provision that a lieutenant will be sent to Louisville, Ky., to study the system there in exchange for another officer who will come here to help in the establishment of the bureau.

Lieutenant Robert E. Raleigh, formerly of the Maryland state police, will stay here about 10 days to make plans for placing the plan in operation.

NIGHT TRAFFIC LIGHTS
LEFT UP TO CHIEF

Council adopted a resolution introduced by Alderman G. Dan Bridges empowering the chief of police to use his discretion to regulate the hours at which traffic lights shall burn.

Mayor Hartsfield asked the resolution requiring traffic lights to operate all night be repealed, pointing out that the present arrangement creates an opportunity for hold-ups.

COMMITTEE NAMED ON LAND PURCHASE

Councilman White introduced a resolution providing for the appointment of a committee to investigate the feasibility of acquiring the triangular area of land in front of the city auditorium.

The resolution, which was adopted, designates Mayor Hartsfield, Ed A. Gilliam, chairman of the finance committee; Councilman White, three citizens and one county commissioner members of the committee.

FIRE PROTECTION
EXTENDED TO FORT

Resolution providing for extension of the city's fire protection to Fort McPherson was adopted by council.

Introduced by Councilman John T. Marler, chairman of the board of firemasters, the resolution provides that in case of fire at the army post the city fire department will send men and equipment to fight the blaze.

A fire department formerly maintained at the fort was recently abandoned.

ERLANGER COMPROMISE
DEFEATED BY COUNCIL

Council failed to grant a request

Assistant City Attorney Bond Almand was snapped as he took "time-out" for a bit of relaxation. In addition to considering the Reed report, council adopted the nine-point Krenzl program of traffic control, which is estimated to cost $3,000.

Unmindful that the candid cameraman is creeping up on him, Alderman G. Dan Bridges studies papers on his desk while his associates point out the advantages of a comprehensive program of traffic control provided in the Krenzl plan.

Under provisions of the Guffey-Vinson act, the city's coal bill will be increased this year by approxi-

Bronchial Coughs Need Creomulsion

Just a common cough, a chest cold, or a bronchial irritation of today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. They may be relieved now with Creomulsion, an emulsified Creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medicinal combination designed to aid nature in soothing and healing infected mucous membranes by allaying irritation and inflammation and by aiding in loosening and expelling the germ-laden phlegm.

The Medical Profession has for many years recognized the beneficial effect of Beechwood Creosote in the treatment of coughs, chest colds, and bronchial irritations. A special process was worked out by a chemist, for blending Creosote with other ingredients and now in Creomulsion you get a real dose of genuine Beechwood Creosote which is palatable and can even be taken frequently and continuously by both adults and children.

Creomulsion is one preparation that goes to the very seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm. When coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles—due to common colds—hang on, get a bottle of Creomulsion from your druggist, use it as directed and if you are not satisfied with the relief obtained, the druggist is authorized to refund every cent of your money. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief that you want. FLORIDAN IS CALLED
BY ATLANTA CHURCH*Westminster Presbyterian Church To Hear Rev. Albert Kissling Feb. 20.

The Rev. Albert Kissling, pastor of the Riverside Presbyterian church, Jacksonville, was invited Sunday to fill the pulpit of the Westminster Presbyterian church, according to an announcement made here yesterday by church officials.

Palmer Walthour, member of the committee appointed to obtain a new pastor, said the Rev. Kissling had accepted an invitation to preach here on February 20, and would decide within a week after that whether or not he would accept the Atlanta pastorate.

Born in Missouri, Rev. Kissling graduated from Westminster College. He received his theological training at the Union Theological Seminary, in Richmond, and took his post-graduate work at New College, University of Edinburgh, Scotland.

On his return to America in 1932 he accepted the pastorate of the Riverside church in Jacksonville, which he has held since.

The Westminster church has been without a pastor since last September, when the Rev. Peter Marshall accepted a call to serve as pastor of the New York Avenue Presbyterian church in Washington, D. C.

87 Candidates Report for First Spring Grid Practice at Tech

RICK WOODWARD SELLS BARONS TO ED L. NORTON

No Purchase Price Mentioned; Change Planned in Office Personnel.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Feb. 7.—(P)—A traditional figure in Southern baseball took his leave today, with announcement that A. H. (Rick) Woodward, 29 years owner of the Birmingham Barons, had disposed of his holding to Ed L. Norton, local business executive and sportsman.

Woodward, whose name has been synonymous with the Barons since he acquired the club in 1909, expressed approval of Norton as new owner.

"I've had $250,000 worth of pleasure out of owning the Barons and have broken even," he said. "Mr. Norton is a young sportsman and I do not know anyone with more enthusiasm for baseball or better qualified to own the club."

NORTON PRESIDENT

Norton will become president of the club, the sale announcement said.

Woodward, as president; Jim Burt and Tom Bowron, vice presidents, and Crawford Johnson Jr., secretary-treasurer, resigned. Burt will continue in an advisory capacity until Norton is acquainted with operation of the club.

Changes in office personnel are not anticipated, it was learned. No purchase price was mentioned in announcement of the sale. Holdings of the Birmingham Baseball Association include the Southern association franchise, players, Rickwood field and parking facilities about the stadium. They have been valued at $340,000.

The new Baron owner said of the purchase:

FLAG PROMISED

"My ambition is to give Birmingham a winning ball club. I have always wanted to own the club. We will make every effort to provide an interesting and colorful ball club. We have the finest baseball plant in the south and, as Manager Fresno Thompson said: We want to have a ball club to match the setting."

Norton, a former three-sports athlete who was graduated from Birmingham-Southern College in 1913, passed over professional baseball and football coaching for a business career. A brother, Homer Norton, is head football coach at Texas A. & M. College. He has extensive real estate, radio and banking connections. In radio he has holdings in Station WAPI, Birmingham, and WBMJ, Jacksonville, Fla.

HEMPHILL WINS MEDALIST PRIZE

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 7.—(P)—Kathryn Hemphill, of Columbia, S. C., today cracked women's par by two strokes to become medalist in the women's Palm Beach tournament with a 36-37-73 card.

Jean Bauer, of Providence, R. I., was a stroke behind the boyish South Carolinian. A two-foot putt on the 18th green missed the cup and prevented Miss Bauer from tying for the medal.

Diana Fishwick, former British and French champion who arrived Saturday, was off her game and failed to qualify for the championship round. Her 45-40-85 put her in the second flight.

Behind Miss Bauer and a stroke over par was Marion Miley, of Fort Pierce, who assembled a pair of 33's to card 76. Jane Cochran Jameson, defeated in the Miami Biltmore finals by Patty Berg last week, scored 39-38-77. Tied with Mrs. Jameson was Sally Guth, of Webster Grove, Mo.

Jacket Swordsmen To Meet Ft. Benning

Georgia Tech fencers will meet the Fort Benning team Saturday at 1:30 at the Naval Armory, instead of the Atlanta Fencing Club.

Lieutenant W. H. Kunzig, member of the 1936 Olympic team, leads the army fencers. The match with the Atlanta swordsmen will be held at a later date.

North Avenue Team To Play Druid Hills

North Avenue Presbyterian school plays second game of the season Wednesday night against Druid Hills girls on the Druid Hills court.

North Avenue will play the Cooper Hall girls Saturday night in Rome.

Gehrig To Confer With Yanks Today

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(UP)—Lou Gehrig will confer with Colonel Jacob Ruppert tomorrow at the latter's Third avenue brewery concerning his 1938 contract to play first base for the New York Yankees. Gehrig, who has just returned from Hollywood, where he acted in a cowboy movie, received $36,000 last season, making him the highest paid player in baseball.

The New York Giants announced Relief Pitcher Walter Brown had signed, making 18 players in the fold.

Jacket Line Charges Hard In First Drill

are "Father" Anderson, Cunningham, Furlow, Cushing, Chivington, Wood and Ison. At the bottom, Backfield Coach Bobby Dodd is instructing a group of backfield candidates and slyly hoping on the side to find another Fletcher Sims or

Sonja Henie Is to Figure-Skating What Bobby Jones Is to Golf

OSLO, Norway.—(By Mail).—Perhaps you've heard of Sonja Henie?

She was ten times world champion figure skater and three times Olympic champion. She earns $50,000 per week, as an exhibition skater and she earns a few hundred thousands of good United States dollars making movies for us to enjoy.

This is her home town, is Oslo. You may not think that Miss Henie and this reporter have anything in common and would be almost exactly correct, except for the fact that this article is being typed in a room at the Missions hotel, which is quite near where she was born. And the one thing we have in common is that we both have slipped and fallen on the ice at Frogner stadium.

It was while trying to make a quick dash across the two racing lanes during an intermission in the recent European championship that your old partner sat down very quickly indeed on the sole of his newly cleaned suit and went sliding along, greatly to the merriment of some people who can laugh at spectacles which have very little humor in them.

Anyhow, this is Miss Sonja Henie's home town. She came home on a visit last summer and they gave her a reception at the quay where her ship landed.

Jackets Play Gamecocks Wednesday

The strain of protecting an undefeated record having been relieved, Georgia Tech's basketball team returned from its Louisiana trip Monday and resumed drills for three hard games this week.

Georgia's Bulldogs play Sewanee in Athens Wednesday night and journey to Auburn Saturday night for another Southeastern conference engagement.

Tech plays South Carolina Wednesday night here, and Vanderbilt Saturday night in Nashville.

Coach Roy Mundorff has already warned his cagers to expect night work since this is the first week his team will have to play three foes.

He is continuing to devote much of his time to the development of reserves since he realizes they will be sorely needed in the Southeastern conference tournament March 4.

Ben Brown To Fight Gus Lesnevich Tonight

By THAD HOLT.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7.—They're saying around this town that Ben Brown is overtrained and that tomorrow night he'll get the works from Gus Lesnevich, seventh ranking light-heavyweight of the world in a 10-round headliner at the Coral Gables coliseum.

Ben is stepping out of his own middleweight class for this one, yet he weighed 165 pounds at his final workout Sunday, a pretty fair indication that he has been brought along for this most important bout in intelligent style by Sam (The Mumbler) Sobel. The Mumbler confided to this correspondent tonight that he thought things looked bad, but it wasn't necessary. He looked scared enough to convey the impression that Lesnevich is being looked upon as some terrible fire-spitting dragon by the Brown camp.

A visit to Lesnevich's camp sold us on his ability and ruggedness and confidence. The New York Russian has fought a superior list of opponents. He is a two-listed assassin who has dropped only three out of 43 fights against the best foes in the game.

Yet, the idea persists in this sunburned noggin that Ben Brown has the class, the speed and the all-around ability to take this crucial test. He has little chance to score a knockout as he has in his last nine fights. But his left hand, coolness and courage and the fact that he has always excelled against bigger foes, should pull him through a bout many Floridians expect him to lose.

A crowd of 4,000 is assured with many notables of the boxing game holding reserved tickets.

- Bird Dog History -

Georgia Field Trial Club First Organized in 1900; Two of Georgia's Three National Champions Raised in Burke County.

By JACK TROY.

WAYNESBORO, Ga., Feb. 7.—Reorganization of the Georgia Field Trial Club here brings up a lot of bird dog history.

The club was first organized in 1900 and now is one of the oldest, running clubs in America.

There have been some great men and some great dogs connected with the club at one time and another.

BOB JONES, TY COBB ET AL.

The membership has included men like Bobby Jones, Scott Hudson, John K. Ottley, Gus Ryan, Al Matthews and Phil Essex, Atlanta; Ty Cobb, Simeon Bell and Joe Reynolds, Waynesboro; Dr. E. M. Wilder, Augusta, now president of the South Atlantic league; Euclyd Claussen, Augusta; Charley Jordan and son, Fred, Monticello.

Great bird dog men these . . .

and great bird dogs have they seen run over these grounds.

Three Champions They Don't Forget.

Two of the three Georgia-owned bird dogs ever to win a national championship were raised and developed here in Burke county.

The other dog was owned by Scott Hudson and won a national title after Scott sold it.

H. M. Curry Jr., who owns the Homewood Kennels here, owned Homewood Flirtatious, national champion in 1935. Homewood Flirtatious was the third and most recent winner among the Georgia-owned champions.

Going back, there was Dr. Hugh McMaster's Count Whitestone the second, the first Georgia-owned dog ever to win a national championship. Dr. McMaster also owned Caesar, one of the class setter dogs of its day.

Scott Hudson afterwards owned McTyre, which he later sold to Jacob France. McTyre won a national championship for France.

A Real Thrill For Fred Jordan.

As a youngster in high school, Fred Jordan had the exquisite pleasure of shooting over Count Whitestone, the second, in the company of his dad, Charley, one of the real field trial veterans of Georgia.

Fred is just like his daddy when it comes to bird dogs. It is ingrained in him. They both are here for the national amateur quail championship.

Charley expressed his deepest regrets that the draw so went that Major Trammell Scott could not get here to handle Hillbriest Fearless Dan, M. G.

Dodd Teaches Backs; 87 Men Report to Alex

SQUAD, COACHES BEGIN SESSIONS WITHOUT DELAY

Full Equipment Given Players; Smith, Anderson, Murphy Absent.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

Football returned to Georgia Tech yesterday with a lot of spirit when 87 enthusiastic candidates—including some 25 freshmen—reported to Head Coach W. A. Alexander for the first practice of spring drills.

Full playing equipment was issued the squad and the coaches and players settled down to their work without much ceremony. No actual contact work was given the players in the first drill, but there was a lot of running and exercising intended to get the team in shape as soon as possible, since Alexander has deemed there will be plenty of scrimmaging in the six or seven weeks of practice.

After a tough calisthenic drill, Coach Alex gave a few instructions and then divided the squad among the different coaches.

DOWN TO WORK.

Bobby Dodd and Roy McArthur worked with the backs, Alexander, himself with the ends, Mac Tharpe, the linemen, and Norris Dean, the Bee team.

With the exception of George Smith, Junior Anderson, both stars on the cage team, Buck Murphy, who is recovering from a knee operation, and a few of the freshman candidates, the team appeared intact at the initial drill.

The biggest problem facing the coaches appears to be the development of backs and ends to take the places of such headline fillers as Fletcher Sims, Harry Appleby,

Frank Johnson Certain To Become Ole Miss Line Coach

EX-BULLDOG ACE WILL ALSO LEAD MISSISSIPPI FIVE

Release From Duties as Georgia Cage Mentor Expected Soon.

By TOM MCBEE.
Frank Johnson, perhaps the University of Georgia's best all-around athlete since Vernon Smith, seems certain to become football line coach and head basketball coach at the University of Mississippi. The only contingency upon which Johnson's selection depends is that he is under contract to the University of Georgia where he is now head basketball coach. Before Mississippi can procure him, it is necessary for the university committee on athletics to give its consent. As those familiar with the University of Georgia know, the university has never failed to allow anyone connected with it to go up to a better job.

Dr. W. O. Payne, director of athletics, said last night: "The university never stands in the way of a promotion. This is an excellent chance for Frank, and I am sure the executive committee will do all it can to help him. Naturally, we hate to see Frank leave. He is a fine and deserving boy."

When Johnson leaves, the basketball team will be without a coach for the fifth time this season. Dr. Payne does not know who will be next but thought possibly that Earl Lampe, recently signed cage mentor, might drop his gridiron duties and handle the team until the tournament.

Johnson was graduated from the university in 1936 and soon after-

Three J.P.C. Regulars, Three Subs Miss Drill

With five men of his squad of 10 out of action, and a sixth out of town, Coach Shep Lauter sent a crippled J. P. C. squad through practice session last night. Morris Katz and Steve Browdy were the only regulars taking part in the drill. With the Warren game just a day away the Progressives' record of six straight over their arch rivals seems in danger.

Gordon (Gabby) Greenberg, with a touch of pleurisy, was the latest to go on the list of those ailing. Little Hyman Katz, who performed so well in Sunday night's game, was out with a charley horse. Happy Ginsberg, Benny Minsk and Nate Left, who missed Sunday night's game, were still out with injuries. Ginsberg, regular forward, has a badly turned ankle; Minsk, regular guard, is out with a bad cold, and Left's throat is infected. Barney Medinits, all Big-Ten forward at Northwestern, who missed the last several games because of a bum knee, is out of town and will not be back in time for Wednesday night's game.

In last night's drill Lauter had Rubin and Morris Katz at forward, Browdy at center and Kulbersh and Kunlansky (the latter being brought up from the Cubs' squad) at guard. Shep expects Hyman Katz to be over his charley horse, but was doubtful about the others.

wards became associated with a well-known theater chain. Last fall he was assistant freshman football coach. While in school he was chosen All-Conference guard in football and All-Conference forward in basketball. He was a pitcher on the baseball team.

Johnson is expected to assume his duties when spring practice starts.

Reports had Johnny Broadnax, also a Bulldog coach, as the other assistant at Ole Miss. Broadnax will remain at Georgia, it was learned.

Coach Harry Mehre, new coach at Ole Miss, was in town yesterday seeing about getting a van to move his things from Athens to Oxford, home of the University of Mississippi. Coach Mehre sold his Athens home to a close friend. The job of moving is so tough that he doubts if his spring football practice will get under way today week, as scheduled.

"I'm expecting about 40 men out. Our squad won't be as large as those at Georgia and Tech." The ex-Notre Dame center expects to have a tough time finding another Frank (Bruiser) Kinnard. "An All-American for two years finishes when I arrive," Mehre said sadly.

NIGHT GAMES.

DURHAM, N. C., Feb. 7.—(AP)—A major dispute of the minor leagues is over, and Portsmouth, Norfolk's next door neighbor, can have its night games. Portsmouth will be permitted to play 28 night games at home—four with each club.

Two Pointers Lead Waynesboro Trials

Dogs Owned by Raymond Hoagland and Wallace Vail Each Find Two Coveys.

By JACK TROY.

WAYNESBORO, Ga., Feb. 7.—Working under difficult conditions, two dogs owned and handled by Raymond Hoagland, of Cartersville, and a dog owned and handled by Dr. Wallace F. Vail, of Greenwich, Conn., shone to advantage in the opening heats of the national amateur quail championship today.

Hoagland's white and orange pointer, Tip's Topsy's Top, and Dr. Vail's Nephew Carolina Jake, white and liver pointer, were the only dogs in the four braces finding as many as two coveys each.

Shore's Mabel Doone, Hoagland's white and liver pointer, found one covey and handled it nicely. The dog's style of handling and steadiness to wing and shot, together with its field work and judgment, seemingly placed it well in the running on the first day of the championship.

SEVEN COVEYS FOUND.
Only seven coveys were found by the four braces that were put down. Hillbright Peerless Dan pointed a covey in some tall broomage by the side of a road and did admirable work with the gallery all around.

Dan, white, black and tan setter owned by M. G. Dudley, of Greenville, S. C., and handled by Louis M. Bobbitt, of Winston-Salem, N. C., is a puppy out of Sport's Peerless Pride, defending champion, owned by Mr. Bobbitt.

Major Trammell Scott, Atlanta, was to have handled Dan but could not get here for the trials because of business in Atlanta. So Mr. Bobbitt handled the dog.

And tomorrow he will handle the defending champion, his Sport's Peerless Pride, which is the only dual champion setter in America. Sport's Peerless last year won both the quail and pheasant championships.

Colonel B. C. Goss, who won the all-age stake of the southern amateur trial at Albany with Mississippi Broomhill Jake, handled Chimes Mississippi Jack nicely today. The dog located one covey. Its work was good considering the conditions.

Fastest job of the day in finding coveys was turned in by Tip's Topsy's Top. The dog was in the first brace and found one covey in a head and another by the edge of a branch within the first 30 minutes, handling both well.

BIT DIFFICULT.
Present conditions are a bit difficult for a big going dog. The

BULLDOGS PLAY CLEMSON TEAM; THOMPSON BACK

Red and Black Cagers Show Good Form Against Frosh.

By RED MILLSAP.

ATHENS, Ga., Feb. 7.—Priming for tomorrow night's clash with the Clemson Tigers, the University of Georgia cage squad tonight engaged the freshman basketball team in a practice scrimmage.

The Bulldogs will leave Athens in the morning for Clemson, S. C., for the second encounter of the season with the Tigers. At the first of the season the Red and Black squad managed to come out with a close win over the Cadets.

In tonight's scrimmage the Bulldogs displayed exceptionally good form.

Olin Thompson, star guard in the Bulldog starting lineup, was in the scrimmage and will probably start tomorrow night. The shoulder injury which has handicapped him in the last two contests is considerably improved.

The starting combination will probably be the same which has started every game of the season except one. The regular combination is: Thompson and Tom Kennedy, guarding; Captain Jack Farren, center; and Alex McCaskill and Cecil Kelly, forwards.

FIELD TRIAL CLUB ORGANIZED IN 1900

Dudley's dog, Charley is a setter and Major Scott is a pointer man. He thought they could get something done here. They argued long and loudly over the merits of the long and short hair at Albany. Their conversation embraced the long and the short of it.

He'll also miss their corn field duet. But if they call that singing, excuse me.

87 GRID PROSPECTS REPORT AT TECH

Dutch Konemann, Red Collins, Ed Jones and Bill Jordan all seniors. There seems to be a wealth of material at the flanks with the return of George Smith, Robert Ison, Tom Allen, Bob Anderson, and with the addition of such freshman stars as Sprayberry, B. B. Kelley and Burroughs.

In the backfield the burden will fall on the shoulders of Ector, Page, Crockett and Gibson, with help expected from the freshman ranks in the form of Joe Bartlett, star of the Tech-Georgia yearling contest last year, Cavette, Hitt and Cheek.

It appears, from this point, the Jackets will have another light, streamlined-lined forewell, the equal of, or better than, the 1937 line.

At tackles will be players of experience in the presence of Walter Rimmer, General Wood, "Little Tarzan" Lackey and Big Glenn Cushing.

Mac Tharpe will present at guards players of the caliber of J. L. Brooks, Wilcox and Anderson, while at center Jack Chivington, Roan Beard and W. E. Sims will return.

These players, with the addition of Freshmen Holley, DeFreese, Aderholt, Perkerson, Hart and Edison should make the Jacket line formidable——y mid-season, if not immediately.

MIAMI-NASSAU.

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 7.—(AP)—After tuning up over the 38-mile Thomas Lipton course off Miami Beach, a group of America's fastest sailing yachts were ready to spread their canvas for the Miami-Nassau race tomorrow. Twenty-two vessels are entered for the 184-mile international event, with the scratch list and last-minute withdrawals yet to come.

Mount Paran Baptist won two games from Fellowship Class, second-round winners, in the Sunday School league Monday evening as close scoring was registered by all ten of the teams rolling.

P. B. Burdett paced the league in individual scoring as he aided his Mount Paran team to victory with a three-game count of 118-101 and 123.

Associated Presbyterian won three games from Decatur Presbyterian, with Roy Petree leading the scoring for the winners with a 330 count. Feason, of Decatur Presbyterian, was runner-up for three-game scores in the league with a 241 count as he bowled games of 102-117 and 122.

Haygood Memorial swept three games from Peachtree Christian. St. Mark Methodist No. 1 won two from St. Mark Methodist No. 2 and Trinity Methodist won two from Capitol View Presbyterian.

Walter Bryan had 336, "Mac" Allen 314, Sam 314, Kleiderer 302, C. Verlander 337, C. Holliday 228, Meyer 223, with the high game of 134, V. Verlander 323, P. Johnson 300, T. P. Talley 308, Burnett 311, B. T. Carter 316, Theron Love 324, Phil Kelly 311, J. Whitley 302, W. L. Aray 300, S. Cantrell 304 and M. C. Gwaltney 312.

Boys' High bowlers retained their one-game lead in the High School bowling league as they split even in a two-game match with Tech High on the downtown drives Monday afternoon.

Boys' High won the first game by a count of 323 to 289 but the Sentinels came right back with a 536 to top the 481 of Boys' High. Luke Darnell featured the afternoon's bowling with a high game of 129 and set of 229 as he bowled with Tech High Tommy Thompson, of Boys' High, was next with a game of 126 and set of 228. Robert Outler and Harry Cantrell had other big sets.

Base Junior High won two from Commercial High girls and Commercial boys won two in the balance of team play.

BREAK O' DAY

post of Oslo and a distinguished writer in north Europe, said the reception was greater than the ones accorded Norway's great explorers, Fridtjof Nansen and Roald Amundsen. Miss Henie's movies have been shown here and were the scenes of small riots, as most of the people in the town remember the little girl who won her first prize at the age of 11 years and who grew up here. She was changed a bit when she came back last summer—in appearance. She had learned the art of applying lipstick and rouge, the latter being a substance not greatly needed or used by Norwegian girls. And she wore Hollywood styles. She was not high-hat at all and her popularity was augmented.

SOMETHING OF HER STORY.

Mr. Anderson kindly supplies the following: "She is a very remarkable person in that she began skating when she was about 6 years old and at 11 years was entered in the European championships. She won 10 world championships and at three Olympic games and so, I think, we may say she was to figure skating what Bobby Jones was to golf."

I nodded in assent. In her own field she comes nearer to having duplicated the accomplishments of Bobby Jones in his field than has any other athlete.

"She was trained from 1924 to 1932 by Martin Stixrud, a veteran skater who won second place in figure skating in the Olympic games of 1920.

"After 1932, her mother, who was an accomplished and expert skater, was her trainer. Miss Henie is a very intelligent girl and she was able, by watching other skaters, to take some part of their work and from it develop a brand-new maneuver in figure skating. In addition, she invented new ones.

"She is the only sports personality to receive a medal from the King. It was presented last summer. There was some surprise but, after all, she has done much to promote good will for Norway and for Oslo."

Mr. Anderson attended the 1932 Olympic games in America. He went over for the winter sports which were held at Lake Placid. Later he saw the track sports, yawning a bit at them. Over here they regard the track and field sports, except for the distance running, as being a bit dull and unnecessary. It's all in the point of view, I guess.

Getting back to Miss Henie, for a moment, there is the Wilhelm Henie shop here with pictures of Miss Henie in the window and ski clothing, fur coats and so on, for girls, on sale inside.

"Is that a recent development?" I asked.

"No," said Anderson, "on the contrary, her father, who recently died and whose name you see above the shop, had the store for years. It has been there for 70 years and always has sold ski and skating costumes. Her brother manages it now."

"Her father, too, was a skater?"

"No; oddly enough, he was a great bike rider."

"I imagine the summer tourists swarm the shop?"

"After those movies, they do."

"All wanting to buy clothes which will make them look as Miss Henie does in the movies?"

"I suppose so."

"Does it succeed?"

"I never see them wear the clothes."

Which was a diplomatic answer. If clothes would teach one how to ski jump or skate, I'd purchase at least one outfit.

"IT OPENED MY EYES... TO REAL JOY SMOKIN'" says Al Boyes. He's talkin' about the guarantee on this milder, tastier "makin's" tobacco...

ALLEN H. (AL) BOYES (above and at the right) gives a good tip to all smokers who roll their own when he says: "I'm sure glad I was open-minded to that Prince Albert money-back offer. It opened my eyes to real joy smoking. What a difference! First, P.A. hugs the paper—rolls up fast and trim. No spilling, blowin' around, or bunching. It draws grand—burns slow, cool, and mellow. There's no harshness—yet there's plenty of good, rich taste." Well, Al, when a tobacco has the bite taken out by a special process, it's got to smoke milder—and when it's choice tobacco to begin with, it's bound to give you real smokin' joy.

FRIEND—THERE'S NO STRINGS TO THIS MONEY-BACK OFFER...

Roll yourself 30 swell cigarettes from Prince Albert. If you don't find them the finest, tastiest roll-your-own cigarettes you ever smoked, return the pocket tin with the rest of the tobacco in it to us at any time within a month from this date, and we will refund full purchase price, plus postage. ALL ABOARD FOR SMOKE PLEASURE—That's a good title for this picture of three happy "makin's" smokers—Al Boyes (left), J. Wilkie (center), and Al Hendrickson (right). No wonder this trio of Prince Albert admirers is smiling. They all check 100% on Chief Officer Wilkie's remark: "I never got the real pleasure there is in 'makin's' cigarettes until I ran onto Prince Albert. What a difference!" That special P.A. crimpcut sure is popular around here with roll-your-owners. (Ahoy, pipe-smokers, join the pipe-joy club, get Prince Albert.)

"WELL, blow me down, mates," chuckles J. W. Wilkie. (You can excuse him for being so cheery about how good he rolls 'em.) "Look at this perfect 'makin's' cigarette full of mild, tasty Prince Albert smokin'."

"HUH—anybody can roll 'em that way with Prince Albert. It's crimp cut," grins Al Hendrickson. "It's made to order for neat, firm rolling—and free and easy drawin', too. And there's no bite to it—no bitter or raw taste."

'Bail Out' Pilot, Leg Broken, Returned to Langley Field

Army Airman Treated Here Before Flight Back to Virginia.

Major William C. Goldsborough, of Langley Field, Va., army flyer who survived a leap from a fog-bound airplane in which Charles L. Richardson, of Washington, labor department conciliator, was killed, returned to Langley Field yesterday afternoon after treatment at Fort McPherson hospital.

Major Goldsborough suffered a slight fracture of the right leg, near the ankle, when his parachute caught in a tree and tumbled him to the ground.

The injured limb was placed in a plaster cast by Captain L. R. Branswell and Captain G. W. Rich, at Fort McPherson.

Meanwhile, another army pilot had flown a ship to Candler field from Langley. Major Goldsborough returned to Langley Field at about 3:15 o'clock yesterday afternoon, the other pilot at the controls.

Richardson was killed when his parachute failed to open. His body, badly mangled, was found in a swamp by a searching party.

The two left Langley Field Saturday night for Miami. Richardson was en route to Puerto Rico on a maritime strike settlement mission. Major Goldsborough said heavy fog and a disabled radio kept them flying blindly until the gasoline supply was nearly exhausted.

Told to Bail Out. "I told Richardson we would have to bail out," the injured pilot said, "and that we would jump at the same time."

The major said Richardson apparently misunderstood and jumped before Goldsborough was ready. He said Richardson cleared the plane in his leap, but the ripcord on the chute had not been pulled.

Although Richardson had received instructions in handling the device.

Services will be held in a Washington, D. C., funeral home today for Richardson. His associates in the conciliation service will serve as pallbearers.

Richardson is survived by his widow, a son, two daughters and four sisters.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—The Farm Credit Administration said today emergency crop and feed loans for 1938 would be available to farmers within 10 days.

S. P. Lindsey Jr., director of the Farm Credit Administration's emergency crop and feed loan section, said the loans, as in the past, would be made only to farmers who could not obtain credit from other sources. The most any farmer might borrow would be $400 at 1 per cent interest.

WILKINS DELAYED BY MOTOR TROUBLE

Propeller Strikes Stick 'Set Up Inadvertently' on Aklavik Runway.

By SIR HUBERT WILKINS.

AKLAVIK, N. W. T., Feb. 7.—(By Wireless)—Unexpected, serious trouble which developed in our port engine, just as we were about to take off on a flight over the Alaskan mountains in search of Sigismund Levanetsky and his five companions, lost on a flight from Russia to Alaska, will prevent us from flying our machine for some days, and probably will necessitate installing of a new engine. An engine is believed available at Edmonton, so I will fly there with the mail plane.

Cause of the trouble was most likely the striking of a stick by our propeller when we were taking off on January 14. The stick had been inadvertently set up by someone between the time of our inspection of the runway and our take-off.

COLONEL C. H. SEALS BACK AT M'PHERSON

Former Commander Reports as Assistant Adjutant General of Corps.

Lieutenant Colonel Carl H. Seals, former commander of the infantry battalion at Fort McPherson, reported yesterday at fourth corps area headquarters for duty as assistant adjutant general of the corps area.

A native of Alabama, Colonel Seals was stationed at Fort McPherson from 1928 to 1930 when he was transferred to the War College at Washington. After graduation in 1931, he served on the War Department general staff in the military intelligence division in Washington for four years. He has served as chief of the public relations branch of the department. For the last two years he has been on duty in the Philippine Islands as assistant general of the Philippine division.

In 1916, then a major, Colonel Seals went with the Second Alabama infantry, Alabama National Guard, to the Mexican border and his regiment was a part of the Thirty-first division which organized and trained at Camp Wheeler, Ga. He served in France in 1918 and was promoted to his present rank. After the war, he remained in the army and was commissioned in 1920 as a major of infantry. He was promoted to lieutenant colonel in August, 1935.

CIO AND 'BIG STEEL' DISCUSS NEW PACT

Union Confident Contract Will Be Signed.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(AP)—In a closely guarded but apparently fruitful conference, the CIO asked the United States Steel Corporation today to renew contracts for more than 500,000 men.

At the end of some two hours of talk, everybody concerned was silent for the record, but authoritative union sources plainly indicated privately a feeling of satisfaction that CIO would be granted a new contract to replace the one expiring February 28.

DEPORTATION SEEN FOR HARRY BRIDGES

Copeland To Offer Bill for Probe of 'Subversive Activities at Sea.'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York, proposed tonight a broad investigation into "subversive activities at sea." The inquiry would be conducted by special senate committee financed with $25,000.

The New Yorker made his announcement shortly after he had predicted that the Labor Department would order deportation of Harry Bridges, west coast maritime union leader.

Copeland said he would offer a resolution in the senate tomorrow and that it would cover "subversive" activities in the merchant marine and navy.

He said evidence in the Bridges case and other documents before his senate committee on commerce indicated a "searching investigation" was needed.

Confidential data in the hands of the government, Copeland asserted, indicates that there is sufficient legal ground to deport Bridges, who was born in Australia.

FLEEING PRISONER CAPTURED BY DOG

FLORENCE, Ariz., Feb. 7.—(AP)—A wounded convict, fleeing from the state penitentiary, was captured 300 yards from the wall today by the yard captain's collie dog.

The prisoner, Earl Williams, 38, had been shot in the leg by guards as he scaled the wall with a makeshift ladder. The dog, owned by T. B. Lopes, knocked him down after he held him when the convict ran past the Lopes home.

SPECIAL POLIO CUP TO GO TO CHICOPEE

Collins Is Proponent of Award to Students for Highest Contributions.

Through personal efforts of Dr. M. D. Collins, state superintendent of schools, a special cup will be bestowed on pupils of the Chicopee school at Chicopee, Ga., for achieving the highest average contribution per pupil in the drive against infantile paralysis in connection with President Roosevelt's birthday.

The average obtained by the pupils of Chicopee was slightly higher than $2.50 each, far above the figure for the school systems of the state.

A cup, provided for schools, was given the school system of Charleston county because its pupils obtained the highest average contributions in the state. Hall county, in which Chicopee is located, was slightly lower than the Hall county figure.

"When I learned of the unusual effort put forth by the Chicopee pupils, and the unusual result," Dr. Collins said yesterday, "I concluded they were due special recognition. The state, district and county chairmen of the drive agreed with me, and the second cup was voted unanimously."

NORTH CAROLINIAN TO RETIRE FROM HOUSE

WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(AP)—Representative Walter Lambeth, of the eighth North Carolina district, announced tonight he would retire from congress upon expiration of his present term.

Lambeth's decision followed an announcement last week by Representative William B. Umstead, also of North Carolina, that he would not seek re-election, and came with as much surprise.

Mother and Grandfather Are Held For Cruelty to Second 'Sin' Child

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., Feb. 7.—(AP)—While a curious crowd watched, the mother and grandfather of little Alice Harris heard a justice of the peace hold them for court today on new charges of cruelty to the 5-year-old red-haired youngster who cannot walk or talk.

Martha Harris, 27, the mother, dabbed her eyes with a handkerchief, and David Harris, 69-year-old farmer, listened intently but both remained silent, and the only word came later from their attorney.

"We'll try this case in court." Originally, the two had been charged with neglecting a minor child. The new charge—"cruelty to an infant"—is more serious, punishable by two years in jail and $500 fine. Miss Harris and her father returned to their farm home near here, freed on $1,000 bail each.

While the brief proceedings went on, Alice—called "Brick" by friendly nurses at the Fayette county home where she is being treated—fondled rag dolls and ABC blocks.

Her body is emaciated, humane agents charge, from lying in an old rocking chair which cradled her from birth, and from going without proper food or care.

E. M. Smith, of the Western Pennsylvania Humane Society, quoted Harris as saying: "She (Martha) had one child. When she brought this other one home I had to do something to make her realize this thing couldn't go on. I could forgive the first sin, but not the second."

Friendship Begun in Philippines Recalled by Dr. Heiser's Visit Here

By Sally Forth.

THE announcement of the arrival on Wednesday of Dr. Victor Heiser will be received with enthusiasm and genuine interest by Atlanta friends of the renowned physician. During former visits here the celebrated medical figure formed warm friendships among Atlanta's cultural and social contingents.

Dr. Heiser will visit Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Blackett on Andrews drive and on Wednesday evening he will speak at the Glenn Memorial auditorium. The friendship between the Blacketts and Dr. Heiser had its beginning many years ago in the Philippines, where the doctor was stationed as chief quarantine officer for the United States army and where he was also chief health officer for the islands. Later Dr. Heiser visited Mr. and Mrs. Blackett in Bangkok, Siam and Constantinople.

Dr. Heiser, who is the author of that best seller, "An American Doctor's Odyssey," will describe the world-famed leper colony that he founded, in his lecture on Wednesday evening. The noted physician, who is often referred to as "private physician to the world," established the colony on Culion island, where he has devoted much time and attention to the natives.

Following his address on Wednesday evening, the speaker will be tendered a reception by the medical students of Emory University and on Thursday the world-renowned physician will be honor guest at a luncheon at which members of Emory University faculty will be hosts.

ATLANTANS returning from cruises in southern waters bring news that Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Apperson Hearst (Randy and Catherine to you), who are honeymooning in beautiful Nassau, will leave there on February 14 to return to Atlanta, with a possible stopover in Cuba en route.

Eleanor Spalding and Emily Smith, with Emily's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Alex W. Smith Jr., who returned to Atlanta last week after spending six days in Nassau, ran into Catherine and Randy at the races and planned a delightful day with them at the charming pink stucco bungalow the Hearsts are occupying. Dr. John Duncan and Dr. Floyd McRae were other Atlantans in Nassau at that time.

Kate and Collett Munger and Sally Jenkins, who are spending some time in Miami with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. William K. Jenkins, have just returned to Miami after spending a few days as the guests of the newlyweds.

Randy and Catherine have made friends in the Nassau winter colony and have been attractive participants in the gay festivities on the island, one of which was the recent two-day fishing trip to Harbor Island, which Catherine writes "was delightful."

QUITE unknowingly, Kenneth Rogers, of The Constitution photographic staff, scooped the town recently when he "shot" a picture of a future bridal couple, which appeared in The Constitution's society pages a few days later.

Kenneth was "covering" a society event with his camera, and seeing the boy and girl together, he decided that they made an attractive couple and snapped them. They are a popular couple, too, and in the early summer wedding bells will ring for them following the announcement of their engagement, which is scheduled for April. The girl received her ring last week and her intimates say that it is a beauty. She attended school in Virginia and is a mem-

Works of Stanton To Be Included On Programs of 5th District Clubs

Clubs in the Fifth district, Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs, are urged to incorporate some-where on the February club program something of the life or works of Frank Leiby Stanton, late beloved poet laureate of Georgia. This is in recognition of his birthday, February 22, and is suggested as a part of the work of the poetry committee chairman under the fine arts department. Frank Leiby Stanton was the first poet laureate of the state, the title and distinction being given him through a proclamation by the Governor of Georgia, Clifford Walker, on January 17, 1925.

Mrs. Raymond H. Wolfe, chairman of poetry of the Fifth district, fine arts department, suggests work of this year be given to the study or reading of Georgia's contemporary poets. Poetry may be featured on fine arts program and invitation to poets to be guests of the group and read their own poems would add interest and an opportunity to know personally the poets themselves.

Study of analysis of poetry, encouragement of self expression by members of the club through the writing of poetry or verse—toward self development and a greater appreciation should also be given emphasis. Poetry writing contests, contests for the purpose of writing and selecting a club poem and papers on one or more contemporary Georgia poets, with an exposition of some of their works, should stimulate interest of literary-minded club members.

Club presidents who have not already done so are requested to appoint chairmen of poetry and send by mail names, telephone number and address to Mrs. Raymond H. Wolfe, 700 Park drive, N. E. Poetry activities already carried out should also be reported. Complete report of work of club committees will be expected at the end of the club year—by or before April 1.

Special leaflets, booklets, etc., to aid in preparing program or study of poetry will be given club poetry chairmen or department of fine arts featuring poetry, if requested, from Mrs. Wolfe at Hemlock 1827-J. Mrs. E. Marvin Underwood is chairman of the fine arts department of the fifth district; Mrs. John D. Evans is district president.

Grant Park Club.

Grant Park Woman's Club will celebrate its affiliation with the Georgia Federation of Women's Clubs February 25 at 8 o'clock at the clubhouse, 602 Park avenue. Friends of the club are invited.

Dr. and Mrs. Paullin Compliment Prominent Visitors at Dinner Party

Dr. and Mrs. J. Edgar Paullin entertained last evening at a beautifully appointed dinner party at their home on Andrews drive honoring their guests, Dr. and Mrs. Roger Lee, of Brookline, Mass., and Dr. and Mrs. James McLester, of Birmingham, Ala. Dr. Lee, who is prominently identified with the Harvard Medical College, is in the city to give a series of lectures.

Quantities of red roses, gladioli, tulips and narcissi adorned the reception rooms of the handsome home. The table in the dining room was overlaid with an exquisite lace cloth and had for its central decoration a crystal vase filled with Easter lilies.

Dr. and Mrs. William Minnich assisted their parents in entertaining. Invited to meet Dr. and Mrs. Lee and Benefit Bridge.

TAKE WEIGHT OFF TIRED FEET

LOSE FAT THE EASY WAY—Without Starvation Diets, or Back-Breaking, Bending and Rolling Exercises.

If your feet and ankles feel tired and ache all over—because you are carrying too much fat—do something about it. Try the treatment that has helped millions to reduce excess weight.

There's a reason why so many people find dieting slow and often times futile in reducing. The reason, doctors say, is often because a little gland is not working right. All the blood in your body goes through this tiny gland sixteen times every day. If it doesn't pour into the blood stream about one and one-half drops of vital fluid every 24 hours, many people take on ugly fat. This fluid helps Nature to "burn up" excess food and fatty tissue in much the same way as a good "draft" acts in a furnace.

Now, physicians combat this condition by feeding this gland the substance it lacks—and millions of pounds of excess fat has been wiped out in this way.

Marmola Prescription Tablets contain the same element prescribed by most doctors in treating their fat patients. So don't waste your time or money striving to reduce with starvation diets or back-breaking exercises. Start the Marmola treatment today that millions have used to get rid of excess fat. The formula is in every box so you know just what you are taking. Don't wait—get a box of Marmola today from your druggist.

Exercise Relieves Mental Strain and Unties Tense Nerves

MY DAY

By Eleanor Roosevelt

HYDE PARK, N. Y., Sunday.—Here I am at Hyde Park spending two days exclusively in sleeping, eating and taking the air. I will be on the midnight train tonight bound for Washington, and very grateful for the time I have had up here. It is just as well, however, that I cannot stay too long a time, for I am afraid I should begin to feel that cities were never meant to be permanent habitations for man.

I have had a little time to look over some of the clippings which have been sent to me in the past few days. I am appalled at the amount of space newspaper writers have filled with nothing more important than the possibility that a woman might bob her hair! I did not bob it and when that was discovered, my reasons for not doing so were also given. I received letters commending me for cutting off my hair and letters berating me for being so undignified. I thoroughly enjoyed an anonymous postcard with the following poem:

Who? Eleanor? Nerve you've got
To say her hair is bobbed. That knot
Is needed on her head like that
To help hold down Eleanor's hat,
For there are times when she must go
A-riding where the winds do blow.
And oh! She knows, most grasping sirs,
If bobbed, you'd steal a hat of hers.

This furor reminds me of a story which a lady in New York told me the other day. Her husband had been at a dinner and his neighbors told him some rather astounding things which I was supposed to have done. She repeated them all to me and when I said rather mildly that I hoped he had denied the tales, she said: "He did tell them that it didn't sound much like you."

Of course, the tales had less foundation than the story of my bobbed hair, for I did cut off a little hair on the sides, whereas I had done nothing faintly resembling the gossip which had been told the gentleman at the dinner.

I couldn't help being amused, however, at the thought of a world filled with beauty and tragedy, happiness and sorrow, all to be recorded in our daily papers and conversation, and then we fuss about such little things—the way a woman wears her hair, and: "My dear, did you hear that Mrs. So-and-So has just done."

There is a new play, "Save Me a Waltz," coming to Washington tomorrow. There are a number of people in it who are of interest to me and I regret that I cannot go to the opening night. I will be able to see it later, when the cast has a chance to shake down a bit. I wish no critics were allowed at any play during the first three performances, then I think we would get much fairer criticisms.

In better speech training, we're told that the most valuable of habits is a critical analysis of the speech faults of others and comparing them with our own.

Meat Stuffing Economical

By RUTH CHAMBERS

Both economy and taste are served when you use stuffings with your meat roasts. The delicious flavor of the meat is cooked into the dressing, which is usually given flavor of its own by the addition of sage, thyme, a dash of cayenne, a little onion or parsley, or fruit.

For roasts on gala occasions, the stuffing is especially important. But stuffings can be used very advantageously with many economy cuts of meat. And of course it is an economy in itself to extend the delicious meat flavor in this fashion.

Remove Bone to Make Pocket. When the bone is removed from certain cuts of meat, a bread dressing may be placed in the cavity. For instance, there is the cushion style pork roast, which is the square cut picnic shoulder with the bones removed and three sides of the cut sewed up. There is also a cushion style shoulder of lamb. When the bone is removed from breast of lamb, a pocket may be made for dressing. A pocket may be made in breast of veal.

Another way to use stuffing is to roll it in cuts such as flank steak or rolled breast of lamb or veal.

Dressing is also used in such dishes as veal birds or stuffed tenderloin. Dressing may also be placed in pockets of thickly cut pork chops, lamb chops or round steak.

Here are a variety of meat dishes in which stuffing plays an important part.

Cushion Style Lamb Roast With Pineapple Dressing.

Have the bones removed from a shoulder of lamb. Sew the two sides to make a pocket. Wipe with a damp cloth. Season. Fill the cavity with pineapple dressing. Sew up the opening and roast in a slow oven, (300 degrees F.) allowing 25 to 30 minutes to the pound.

Pineapple Dressing.
2 tablespoons minced onion
2 tablespoons melted butter
2 cups soft bread crumbs
Salt and pepper
1 tablespoon minced parsley
1 No. 2 can crushed pineapple
Saute onion in melted butter until tender. Add bread crumbs and brown slightly, then add salt, pepper, parsley and drained pineapple.

Veal Birds.
2 pounds veal steak or cutlets
8 slices white bread
2 tablespoons butter
2 tablespoons grated onion
Dash sage
½ teaspoon nutmeg
Salt
Pepper
Flour
Flat
Wipe thinly steaked veal, remove bone and trim. Cut in pieces 4 inches long and 2 inches wide. Make a stuffing as follows: Dry and toast the bread in a slow oven, or use bread several days old. Crush fine and add melted butter and seasonings. If the mixture is not moist enough to hold together when squeezed between the fingers, add a very small amount of water. Do not have the dressing too moist as that will make it soggy. To make birds, spread mixture thinly on center of each piece of veal. Roll individually and fasten with toothpicks. Sprinkle with salt and pepper, dredge with flour and brown in hot fat. Add a small amount of water and cover tightly. Reduce heat and cook either on surface of range or in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 45 minutes or until meat is tender.

Stuffed Flank Steak.
1 flank steak
1 cup soft bread crumbs
4 tablespoons bacon drippings
1 tablespoon minced onion

1 tablespoon chopped parsley or celery tops
1 tablespoon chopped green peppers
1 beaten egg
1 teaspoon salt
Pepper
Flour
Select a good-sized flank steak. Have it scored in criss-cross fashion at the market. Season it with salt and pepper. Mix the bread crumbs with chopped parsley or celery tops, minced onion, chopped green peppers and 2 tablespoons bacon drippings. Add the beaten egg and enough water to moisten. Spread on the steak. Roll up and tie or skewer into shape. Sprinkle with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Melt the other 4 tablespoons bacon drippings in a deep baking pan and brown the flank steak roll on all sides in the hot fat. Add one cup water, cover tightly and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) until done, about 2 hours.

Stuffed Pork Shoulder Roast.
1 pork shoulder
4 cups soft bread crumbs
2 eggs
2 tablespoons chopped onion
1 cup corn
4 tablespoons melted butter
4 tablespoons chopped green pepper
Salt and pepper
Have bone removed from the pork shoulder at the market. Wipe with a damp cloth. Make dressing from other ingredients and press into the cavity made by removing the bone from the shoulder. Sew the end with a coarse thread. Place in a slow oven (350-325 degrees F.) and roast until done, allowing 30 minutes to the pound.

PLEASANT HOMES

By ELIZABETH McRAE BOYKIN

A THING OR TWO.

Homemakers Could Give the Political Big-Wigs Some Tips.

It seems to us that the political big-wigs might take a page from almost any homemaker's book if they really want to know something about planned economy. They'd probably not get the whole answer to the question, but any bright lady could tell them a thing or two about stretching dollars and doughnuts so that the tomorrow may reap a goodly harvest. They might talk, as we did, to a very forthright friend who is planning her home for present comfort and future loveliness.

"Some decorators make me tired," said Florence, "I'd like to know how they figure Jim's $40 a week would finance their suggestions."

We thought her indictment quite just, especially since we were then sitting in quite a charming living room which Florence herself has achieved on her limited budget but without decorative didoes. She admitted that it had taken several years of the very best sort of planned economy to achieve it, but the wait was worth it. She started out with an idea, you see, and had the courage and good sense not to be satisfied with mediocre results.

But Not Stuffy. "We had to buy our furniture on a budget plan; but we went to one of the best department stores and bought wisely," she explained. "A sofa with good clean unchanging lines, two upholstered but not stuffy chairs and a rug—a room-sized carpet in warm brown—were our first purchases. The painting we did ourselves—walls a light, pale yellow, the woodwork a rich ivory. Then for a while we rested, filling in the room with books we had, wedding presents lamps and the like. 'But I began watching sales, still at the very best stores. I always had the completed picture in mind so I was never led off the path by 'bargains' in material that I really couldn't use to best advantage. For the draperies and slip covers for the two chairs I was lucky to find a really divine linen with a deep dusty blue background and floral figures in yellow, beige and just a touch of wine. I forgot to say that long before I ever spent my money on the material, I had bought really good fixtures for hanging draperies. I'd discovered that so many women spend all their money on draperies and then spoil the whole effect with second rate fixtures."

"Later I was able to find just the right striped linen for the sofa—chocolate brown and pale blue, very dramatic! My husband built the book cases and we painted them the same yellow as the walls, with pale blue insides. We also painted the mantel and brick facing of the fireplace pale blue. 'Tables have come and we've added lamps and potted plants and bibelots. That handsome folding screen you see over there was the latest addition—my Christmas present to us!'"

There, Mr. Economist, a lesson from a very smart lady! (Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.)

Your Figure, Madame

By IDA JEAN KAIN.

For a hard-working starlet, making pictures is a grind, and on her days off from the Paramount lot, Betty Grable believes in relaxing in exercise. Her enthusiasm for the skip-rope explains her perfect figure.

2-12

EXERCISE—THE BEST CURE FOR FATIGUE.

A comfy couch and an extra soft pillow may be your idea of relaxation when fatigue gets you down, but if you are a housewife or an office worker the scientific way to combat fatigue is with physical activity.

Muscles cramp and nerves become tense in a routine of work and you relax naturally only when the muscles have been put to use. You work hard, but how much exercise do you get in office or housework? Practically none.

Barbara Bell Styles

DAYTIME DRESS WITH SLIDE FASTENING.

For a spring dress that you will wear with real pleasure into the summer, choose Pattern No. 1375-B. Designed on princess lines the dress is very slenderizing and gives a charming femininity to the figure. Note the turn-down collar with wide lapels and the short, puffed sleeves that make the waistline look inches smaller. For those who prefer the decorative touch of bright buttons, use bright bone ones instead of the slide fastener from neck to hem and emphasize the long lines of the dress. For this dress choose one of the new rayon crepes, alpaca or shawlskin and let the collar and belt contrast with the fabric.

Barbara Bell Pattern No. 1375-B is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20 and 40. Corresponding bust measurements 30, 32, 34, 36, 38 and 40. Size 14 (32) requires 2 1/2 yards of 54-inch material plus 5-8 yard 39-inch material for collar and cuffs.

Price of pattern 15 cents. Do not send stamps.

When you lie down for a few minutes' rest it is hard to really relax. You are much more likely to feel refreshed from a workout on the mat or the floor.

Fatigue, you see, is a poison and it must be carried away by the blood stream. In exercise the blood stream is quickened, which takes the poison away and relieves fatigue just that much more rapidly. That whipped down feeling is banished most efficiently with exercise balanced with complete relaxation. The next time you feel as if you had got in the path of a herd of stampeding elephants, try this 10-minute fatigue chaser. . . .

Begin by sitting in a chair and bending over in a complete flop. Let the head, arms and hands dangle between the legs, limp as string. Straighten up and flop again. See what a complete flop you can be! The blood rushing to the brain is good for you. Such tactics help relieve mental strain and untie tense nerves.

Now get down on the floor and lie there. Yes, the good, hard floor! It offers more rest than the softest couch because it takes over the job of supporting your bones and gives those tired muscles a real vacation. Just sprawl, naturally. One by one, try to tense your tired muscles and then let them go limp again. You might start with the right wrist, tensing it and then flapping the hand loosely. Then tense the arm, and let it flop. Repeat with the left wrist and arm.

You can take the kinks out of your neck muscles by rolling the head loosely on the shoulders. yawn a few prodigious yawns.

Continue your relaxing process by raising one leg in the air, and letting it fall limply to the floor. Repeat with the other leg. Now wriggle the body, stretch from head to toe, and let yourself go limp again. Lie there as if you were about to sink right through the floor. See how little effort you exert.

These muscle-toning movements and there is nothing better than stretching for fatigue. Get up on all fours, with arms and legs straight, and raise the right arm and the right leg simultaneously, high in the air. This gets all your muscles! Try the exercise with the left leg and left arm.

Exercise that is fun always affords the best possible relaxation. Over the week-end, go skating, ride a bike, hike, skip rope, or do something that will give you pleasure and exercise combined.

Hollywood Today

By SHEILAH GRAHAM.

ON SETS WITH THE STARS.
HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 7.—On Stage No. 6, Aunt Millicent Bartholomew is adding up accounts in a well-furnished trailer provided by Darryl Zanuck. "Where is Freddie?" your correspondent asks. Aunt Millicent removes her spectacles and looks vaguely around the set. "Oh, he's somewhere—having lessons, I expect." And then returns to her all-absorbing figures.

"Let me see," she mutters, working quickly with a pencil, "that leaves us with—exactly nothing." She smiles brightly at me. (It takes more than an empty bank balance to down Aunt Millicent.) "After three hard years of motion picture work, Freddie is starting from scratch," she explains. "Not only that, but we are in debt. Fortunately, we have this two-year contract (guaranteeing Freddie slightly more than $98,000 a year). And I shall try to save something for Freddie's future. Things look brighter. We only have one lawsuit in sight—against Freddie's parents, who now take 20 per cent of his earnings. It isn't fair, is it? The boy has got to consider himself. The next two years will tell whether his film career ends with adolescence. If it does—well, there won't be much for anyone, the way things are now."

"Bartholomew recently celebrated his 13th birthday—which is quite old for a movie moppet."

"He's such a dear boy," continues his guardian. "I banged my head on the set the other day. And guess what he did? He spent his entire savings—$4—on me—a large box of chocolates, some perfume, and a black eye-shade to rest my eyes! I don't know what I'd do without him."

"Alexander's Ragtime Band." Tyrone Power, in a rookie uniform of 1916, looks smaller and younger. If that is possible, he conducts an imaginary orchestra in the studio replica of a Y. M. C. A. concert hall. Opposite Mr. Power—beyond the vision of the camera—another man is going through the motions of conductorship. (When you see the film, Tyrone will be smiling at the audience. Today, he smiles at the professional whose baton waving is a mirror for Tyrone's inexperience.) "Phew! It's hard work," the actor complains afterwards in his trailer (also provided by nice Mr. Zanuck). But it's nothing to what I'm going to do. I have to lead a large symphony orchestra later in the picture. But I don't get to that for two or three weeks—thank goodness." (By which time Stokowski will have nothing on Power—you learn things quickly for the movies.)

"But what really worries me," continues Tyrone, "is the violin I have to play. I don't know an 'e' from a 'g' string." Despite his worries, Mr. Power looks exceedingly well and exceedingly handsome. "That's what everyone tells me," he complains. "The last four weeks I've worked nine hours every day to complete my role as 'Marie Antoinette.' I've never felt so tired in my life. And everyone tells me how well I look. Phew!"

"You and Me." . . . Sylvia Sydney stands in the doorway of a dismal apartment in New York. She wears a tight-fitting flowered dress, a faded brown straw hat, George Raft, as usual, is encased in a high-waisted suit. The monochrome of Director Fritz Lang remains secure in his left eye. His mouth follows the dialogue of his puppets as Raft holds a cigarette in one hand, and, with the other, nonchalantly carries Miss Sidney over the threshold. A loud crash as they tumble to the floor proves that George has slightly overestimated his strength. Outside "Dandy" Raft's dressing room stands companion-guard "Killer" Mack Gray—a sartorial vision in gray plaids. "I got a bit in 'You and Me,'" says the stock girl's dream proudly. "Not a big bit—but I guess I'll put it over."

FRIENDLY COUNSEL

By CAROLINE CHATFIELD.

Problems of general interest submitted by readers will be discussed in this column. Correspondence should be held in confidence. Write Miss Chatfield, care The Atlanta Constitution.

DEAR MISS CHATFIELD:

What happens to the playboy that thinks love is merely a physical urge? He comes from a fine family, has been taught the fundamentals of right and wrong, but somehow doesn't keep to the straight and narrow. He throws over a really swell girl because she is "too good for him." Is such a boy capable of experiencing real love? Will he ever appreciate a girl whom he now calls his old-fashioned and naive. The girl who even though she loved him refused to overstep the bounds of chastity? — CO-ED.

What usually happens is that the young playboy sows a few wild oats, wounds a few tender hearts along the way, then falls for a lily white and marries her. You, of the wounded heart, shouldn't lose faith in yourself because one playboy passed you up. Nor should you worry about his ultimate fate. Just say a prayer of thankfulness that you didn't fall for his low line—and call it a day.

The chances are that your playboy doesn't believe the bosh he's spouting. Any high school or college professor will tell you that when a youngster is feeling his oats preparatory to sowing them, the first thing he does is to disclaim belief in love and religion. With this freight thrown overboard, he's prepared to travel light, as suits his purpose.

Furthermore, he fancies that he is establishing his intellectual integrity and his right to do a little free thinking. He's taking his ego for a big ride. His parents are on their knees praying for him when they aren't trying to talk him out of his agnosticism. His girl friends are arguing with him, worrying over him and keeping on his shoulder, begging him to believe, assuring him that God's in his heaven and all is right with the world; which lends him a swell sense of importance. What a man!

Yet, in spite of his much-vaunted independence, life has the drop on him. Reared in a good home where his parents taught him the difference between right and wrong, truth and error, he will most likely do the proverbial prodigal son act: come to himself and admit that he's played the fool.

HEALTH TALKS

By DR. WILLIAM BRADY.

NEURITIS IS A LARGE ORDER.

For that matter it seems to me that in these parlous times there is much less inflammatory rheumatism than we used to see when I elevated the standing of medicine by entering the profession. You know what I mean—acute infectious arthritis, rheumatic fever. If my impression is correct, I'm ready and eager to rush forward with a plausible explanation for lowered incidence (as doctors say) of rheumatic fever. Maybe I'd better tell you, whether you want to know or not. I think it would be a logical consequence of increasing popular understanding of the communicability of alleged "colds," simple sore throat, tonsillitis, quinsy, pharyngitis, laryngitis, gripe or what do you call it. The more certain any one is that such indispositions or illnesses are communicable in their early stages (before the victim feels sick enough to remain at home or to go to bed) the more care he is going to take, if he knows how, to avoid catching the alleged "cold." Right here if you space were not strictly limited, I'd like to pound home once more the principle of conversational spray infection. But it might make unpleasant reading for women children and the politicians who administer public health.

Neuritis is not especially related with "rheumatism" but merits consideration here because it has had a vogue and is cultivated as a fad by some doctors and laymen.

Neuritis is inflammation of a nerve. One nerve alone may be affected, say the great sciatic nerve behind the hip and extending down the back of the leg; or the optic nerve, the nerve of vision. Or many nerves may be affected, as in the multiple neuritis or polyneuritis of beriberi, alcoholism, chronic arsenic poisoning, nutritional deficiency in pregnancy. These are instances of genuine neuritis.

The affection of "neuritis" by the idle rich, the parasitic relatives or dependents of men who get too much pay or have too large an income, is generally not neuritis at all, but some real or imaginary ache, pain or weakness the parasite cultivates just to cover his or her imposition. Nor is an ache or pain which is here today and gone tomorrow or bewilderingly unsettled, jumping from place to place to suit the exigencies, genuine neuritis—it is generally just a faint twinge of conscience. Mind, now, I do not mean to imply that nobody ever suffers from a real pain in one spot today and another pain elsewhere another day; there are plenty of sure-enough maladies that might so manifest themselves.

By the way, sciatica or "sciatic rheumatism" as the old-timers called it, is always either inflammation of the sciatic nerve (sciatic neuritis) or pain in the nerve (sciatic neuralgia) from pressure upon or irritation of the nerve at some point in its course from the lower part of spinal cord down the length of the leg. Accordingly, there is no specific remedy, treatment for sciatica apart from the proper treatment of neuritis or neuralgia, whichever it may be. Certainly there is no reason to imagine acids in food, or food lacking in acid, has anything to do with sciatica.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

Why it is that sometimes I can see my heart beat through my clothes? How can a person tell if he has high blood pressure? (L.J.)

Answer—Normal heart beat may be visible through the clothing sometimes. Person can't tell—only physician can determine what the blood pressure is by measuring it with a sphygmomanometer in the routine physical examination. Silly to worry about such things. Break down and treat yourself to a regular physical examination, a health examination or periodic check-up. If you report to the same physician for this each year, the data become more valuable as the years roll on; and the doctor's advice will keep you well if you follow it. INSTALLMENT XXIII.

"Miss Caradad," he began meditatively, then hesitated. "I like to say that name—never met it in the flesh before. Hope you don't mind."

"Of course not." Then she added impulsively. "Miss Caradad sounds like home."

"Stop me, if I'm out of bounds. But you said something about an investment... made me wonder... well, if it were a substantial amount. Mind telling me? I've nothing to sell."

"Why, no... I guess you wouldn't call it much. You see, I had a chance to sell our ranch after my father died and..."

"And you have the proceeds on your hands."

"Yes, Mr. Severance." "I'd guess that you had no one to look out for but yourself. Women with dependents don't like to gamble—so I've noticed. If you have the urge, and the margin, why don't you invest in yourself?"

"What do you mean?"

"Buy yourself some of the pleasures of life—your own kind. I fancy that travel would be one. Get out and see the things and places that interest you. It doesn't cost much these days—you can do it on the dividends of a few thousand. Let somebody else play the big stakes. Do your investing at home. Do I sound like one of those professional advice slingers one hears on the radio?"

"No indeed! It's very kind of you."

"Well, if you really think so, I'm minded to ask you to promise me something. What's the name of that legal light..."

"Judge Pomphrette?"

"That's the one. He sounds good to me. I could wish that you wouldn't drop any money in any market without his okay."

"I wouldn't."

"I remarked before that it's none of my business, but that does relieve me very much. It's a promise."

"Good. Please don't think that I underrate your business acumen. But I'd be trimmed like the veriest sucker if I tried to buck the market, and I fancy you wouldn't be much better off. It's a game you have to learn before you go up against the professionals."

"I suppose so."

Caradad was thinking deeply, coming to a conclusion that very much surprised her. John Severance ance not only was very nice, but there was something—well, substantial about him. She had the feeling that he was a good friend and could be trusted. His standing and reputation would assure that. He had said he "liked her a lot."

His sound and frank advice proved it quite to her satisfaction. Nevertheless, she was a trifle breathless as she leaned forward in her chair to say, "Mr. Severance, may I ask you something?"

"Of course," he replied instantly.

"Perhaps I shouldn't, but... well, when you asked me to—promise about Judge Pomphrette, you..."

"Go on."

"You had been speaking previously of Terry Cantine. Was that why?"

"Hold on!" Severance sat erect in his chair. "You know as well as I that isn't exactly cricket. Cantine is nothing more than a mere acquaintance. A business acquaintance, at that."

"But he's more than that to me," Caradad persisted steadily. "Terry is almost the oldest friend I have in the world. I guess he's about the best. I would trust him with anything, but... but he doesn't trust me."

"What do you mean, he doesn't trust you?" Severance sank back in his chair and stared from under his lowered brows.

"Well... I spoke to him about investing some money for me. He wouldn't do it."

"And that," said Severance, pulling strongly on his dead pipe, "is much to his credit."

"Why?"

"Because a man doesn't like to handle a friend's money—particularly if the friend's a woman."

"But you told me Terry sold securities to his friends."

"Did I?"

"Yes. I know I shouldn't ask you, but he's almost like my older brother. I can't help wishing I knew what his friends, his men friends, I mean, think of."

"Well, the way he does business, I can't make it very clear. I know. But, for some reason, I feel that he's not having smooth sailing. It worries me. I can't help it."

"I see," Severance leaned forward and rapped the ash from his pipe on the hearth. He thrust it into his pocket and scowled at the dying fire. "Look here, Miss Caradad, you're putting me rather on a spot. I see what you mean... but I can't very well discuss another man's business. Especially when I don't know much about it. I do know that Cantine works the social racket, and there's nothing wrong with that. I've never had any transactions with him myself."

"Would you?"

"Would you?"

"Frankly, no. But that's mainly because I leave those matters to advisers who know more than I do."

"I see... I hoped you could tell me. I'm sorry."

"Wait a minute. Since you're worried about the chap, that puts it in a different light. Rather. There's no harm, I suppose, in trying to do another fellow a good turn. We'll look at it this way. Do you have any influence with him?"

"Oh, no. I hadn't seen nor heard from him for a very long time... until I came here."

"Wonderful," he said, "wondering."

"If it might be a good idea to slip him some advice... for you to, I mean."

"What would it be?"

"Merely to watch his step a little. Don't ask me to put it in plain language. Because I won't."

"I know what you mean," Caradad answered slowly. "I guess I shouldn't have said anything about it. But thank you."

"That's all right. And don't worry... he knows his way around. If all his friends are as good as you, he'll make out well enough. Shall I look at the weather? It's about time for the run home."

While Severance was out of the room, Caradad sat motionless looking into the fire. She wondered if she had been wrong in mentioning Terry and his business affairs to a man almost a stranger.

But, somehow, she couldn't make it wrong. Instinctively she liked the way Severance had reacted to her questioning. He didn't think it very honorable to discuss another man's situation—he would be like that. And, for that reason, Caradad had no fear that he would consider their talk in anything but the strictest confidence. But it didn't make her any more comfortable, so far as Terry was concerned.

Severance's advice was vague, but it had a sinister sound. Terry was to watch his step? What did that mean? Severance had made it plain that he never did any business with Terry. There was but one conclusion to draw from that. Terry was being discussed by other men—discussed unfavorably. It just didn't seem possible that he could have been doing anything that wasn't quite... right. Terry was a Cantine, after all.

She couldn't give that advice or any warning whatever. But she wished she knew what it was all about. She was still turning it over aimlessly in her mind when Karen came to chat a moment.

The farmer's wife was plainly pleased when "Mister Yon's" company praised her cooking, more than pleased when she found that Caradad could and liked to discuss kitchen affairs. Young women from the city didn't, as a rule.

"Miss Vardell" even knew how to bake bread and the two were engaged in a deep discussion of methods when Severance returned.

He stood with his back to the fire and listened with an amused smile until the discussion was finished. Karen expressed a hope that Caradad would come back soon and withdrew.

"No rain yet," Severance reported, "and I don't believe we're going to have any. But it's surprisingly cool. I had Jerry bring in a light motor car. It's on the chair over there by the door. You'd best slip into it when you're ready to start."

"I'm ready now."

The trip back to the city was made swiftly, almost too swiftly, Caradad thought. She leaned back in her corner of the wide seat, enjoying the protection of her wrap while the wind beat against her face. And she was deeply engrossed in listening to Severance.

It was almost the first time he had proved talkative and Caradad urged him on with an occasional artful question.

He had spent several months in Spain the year previous, wandering by himself through the Cantabrian mountain area for the most part. But he was perfectly familiar with Madrid, could draw vivid word pictures of its streets, of the sights of Valencia, Cartagena. Better still, he could give a concise account of the civil strife that had kept these cities in the day's news.

What the fighting was about, the probable reaction in Europe, even in Asia. John Severance certainly knew the world first-hand, Caradad decided a trifle enviously. He must have been everywhere.

"It has been so enjoyable," she sighed when the Rushmore was reached. Severance lingered by the side of the car.

"If you mean that," he suggested, "maybe you'll be willing to go again."

"Of course I will!"

"You say that so enthusiastically, I'm uncertain whether I or the fried chicken constitute the chief lure."

"If someone came to kill me," he replied with a smile, "I would say, 'All right! Thank you!' to him."

"Have you ever seen a cobra in the jungle?" I asked the same man.

"Yes, one day I got close to a cobra before I saw it."

"What did you do?"

"I ran away as fast as I could!" From that little event, I judge that my Buddhist friend really does not want to die very soon. The cobra is one of the world's deadly snakes. It is fairly common in some parts of Ceylon, as well as in India. Now and then we may see a native who "charms" cobras, but most persons would not care to try his job.

Another deadly snake of Ceylon is the python. It does not have a poisonous bite, but it can crush a large animal or a human being to death. Some Ceylon pythons grow to a length of 20 or 22 feet.

Among the other wild animals on this island are leopard, panther, bears, deer, wild boars, crocodiles and jackals. The birds include crows, cuckoos, weaver birds, pelicans, hornbills, hoopoes, orioles, kingfishers and flamingos.

The leopards seldom turn into "man-eaters," but one near Puna-ni, Ceylon, is said to have killed 15 people before it was shot by a farmer. The bears also are dangerous. They are not of great size, but they have long sharp claws, and sometimes attack men who wander into the wilds.

The sambar deer is the largest on the island, and reaches a weight of more than 400 pounds. Many Ceylon homes are built on or lots with ratkates in them. These snakes kill large numbers of rats and mice. When chasing their victims, or struggling with them at night they may make so much noise that people below cannot sleep.

The snake-killing mongoose is another Ceylon animal. It is not afraid to attack a cobra, and it also pursues the poisonous "tic polonga."

What Stocks Did.

Advances 161, declines 231, unchanged 168, total issues 650, 597.

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(P)—

Feeling rallied fell to hold in today's stock market and leaders finished a sluggish session with losses of fractions to around 2 points.

The proceedings were the slowest for a five-hour stretch, for any day since August 31, last. Transfers totaled 513,251 against 808,299 Friday. The ticker tape was frequently muted. The Associated Press average of 60 issues yielded .6 of a point at 42.4.

Steels dropped throughout, ignoring the American Iron & Steel Institute's estimate of an increase of .2 of a point in this week's mill operating week. Conference began here between United States Steel and union representatives on renewal of the present wage contract which expires February 28, and there were rumors the company would not insist on a pay reduction at this time.

Motors were also rather sickly from the start, notwithstanding predictions of a moderate gain in output this week and an improved situation in the used car market. After the close General Motors directors confirmed previous forecasts by declaring a 25-cent dividend on the common, the same amount disbursed in the first quarter last year.

American Telephone dropped at the beginning, came back for a time, and slipped again at the last, losing a point net at 133 1/8. The company reported 1937 net operating income was some $7,000,000 under that of the year before.

CHICAGO, Feb. 7.—

Persistent talk that European importers must sooner or later become active buyers from this country had a steadying effect on Chicago wheat prices today.

One reason that traders gave was an accelerated decrease of the United States wheat visible supply total today to almost 62,000,000 bushels under the season's peak. Unabated dust storms and dry weather in domestic winter wheat production southward were also given attention.

Under such circumstances, Chicago wheat fluctuations today kept within unusual narrow limits of but 1/4 of a cent a bushel and closed virtually unchanged, 1-4c off to 1-4c up compared to Saturday's finish. May 84 1/2 to 94 5/8-4c, July 90 1-2c, corn 1-4 to 1-2c down, May 58 3/4 to 58 7/8, July 59 3/4 to 59 7/8; oats unchanged to 1-4 advance; rye unchanged to 3-8c bulge.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED BY GENERAL MOTORS

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(P)—Directors of General Motors Corporation, which paid a dividend on its common stock throughout the depression years, today declared a 25 cent disbursement on the common, payable March 12 to stockholders; or, record February 17.

General Motors' directors also declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 on the $5 preferred stock. These disbursements totaled approximately $13,200,000 in all—around $2,345,000 on the preferred and $10,800,000 on the common.

TARZAN THE FEARLESS

No. 14

Tarzan was returning with water when he heard the creak of the platform above. His eyes shot upward just in time to see the fever-dazed man swaying and teetering, stretching out his arms. In a few moments, he knew, the unsteady figure would topple earthward.

The ape-man sprang upward, like an arrow released from a tight-drawn bow. He hoped to gain the platform before the man stepped off into space. But he was too late. Before he was halfway up, the dream-walker fell forward, and tumbled through the trees.

The mighty Tarzan, whose mind and muscles worked in perfect co-ordination, responded instantly when he perceived that the fall was inevitable. He braced himself on a broad bough and fixed his arms and shoulders like a football player about to receive a kickoff.

By Edgar Rice Burroughs

The man hurtled downward—and struck. Tarzan locked his arms around the whirling body, but the uneven impact knocked him off balance. Together they fell. Dr. Brooks screamed. . . . In the forest the hostile warriors heard the cry, and dashed forward.

Calotabs Help Nature To Throw Off a Cold

Millions have found in Calotabs a most valuable aid in the treatment of colds. They take one or two tablets the first night and repeat the third or fourth night if needed. How do Calotabs help nature throw off a cold? First, Calotabs are one of the most thorough and dependable of all intestinal eliminators, thus cleansing the intestinal tract of the virus-laden mucus and toxins. Second, Calotabs are diuretic to the kidneys, promoting the elimination of cold poisons from the blood. Thus Calotabs serve the double purpose of a purgative and diuretic, both of which are needed in the treatment of colds. Calotabs are quite economical, only twenty-five cents for the family package, ten cents for the trial package. (adv.)

VINSON INDORSES DEMAND ON TOKYO

Georgian Declares It Is Only Just for U. S. To Know of Naval Plans.

By GLADSTONE WILLIAMS.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 6.—Action of the State Department in addressing a note to Japan demanding to know if that country is planning to build battleships in excess of 35,000 tons has the hearty approval of Representative Carl Vinson, of Georgia, chairman of the house naval affairs committee, now engaged in the important task of drafting legislation to strengthen American defenses. The Georgian, one of the group of administration advisers in the formulation of national defense policy, feels that the action of the State Department was not only justifiable but timely. "A Right to Know." "The United States government has a right to know what Japan's intentions are," he said. "If the Japanese are building warships beyond the limitations of the Washington treaties, and the London treaty which was entered into by the United States, Great Britain and France, but to which

Newspapers Called Best Media for Ads

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—(P)—Sir Charles Higham, English publicist and advertising executive, today said newspapers are the best media for advertising. "I know there is a tendency among many advertisers in your great country to employ other means of selling things, besides the press, but I have yet to meet an advertiser who has made a success without it," he said on his arrival from Europe.

Japan refused to adhere, then it is highly important that we have the information—all the more so in view of the President's national defense message now being translated into legislation by the naval affairs committee. Along with others high in the councils of the government, Representative Vinson had received reports that the Japanese are planning battleships with greater tonnage than the 35,000-ton limitation now imposed. The figures most often quoted are 43,500 and 45,000 tons, with corresponding increases in the size of guns and cruising range.

To Put Plans on Record.
It is entirely proper, he said, for the United States to give the Japanese government an opportunity to answer the reports. If the truth were known, the chances are that this country and Great Britain, who joined with the United States in addressing a formal note to Tokyo on the subject, already have more or less complete information. The effect of the inquiry will be to bring the situation into the open, permitting other signatories to the London treaty to take advantage of our defensive position at the Panama canal. Hawaii and Guam seemingly take on added significance in the light of the State Department note to Japan.

Closely Guarded Secret.
The full scope of American naval movements in the Pacific remains a closely guarded secret, of course, but enough is known to give zest to the current developments. While War and Navy Department officials disclaimed knowledge of any facts indicating that this country is making unusual preparations for a possible conflict with Japan, it was freely admitted that the United States for the past few years has been strengthening her position in Hawaii and the Canal Zone.

"When present plans are completed," Lieutenant Colonel A. D. Surles, chief of the War Department information section, said, "Both Hawaii and the Panama Canal should be among the strongest defenses in any of the world's outposts." Colonel Surles emphasized the character of these defenses and the disposition of troops would have to remain military secrets. He said that in January we had 20,618 enlisted men in Hawaii and 12,529 in Panama.

Good Share of Troops.
With the total strength of our national army only 165,000 men, it is readily seen that both Hawaii and the Panama Canal Zone have a good share of the troops. It was also pointed out that in furtherance of its plans to build up composite wings of the GHQ air force in the Hawaiian Islands and Panama, the War Department had ordered the 31st bombardment squadron from Hamilton Field, California, to the Hawaiian department. This squadron is equipped with the latest type Douglas twin engine bombers known in the air corps as the B-18. The movement of these bombers started about a week ago, Surles said. Hickam Field, the new army air station in Hawaii, covering more than 2,000 acres, is being developed at a total cost of $7,775,750. The government already has spent $1,228,201.

Great Base at Guam.
Plans are being developed, moreover, for establishing a great naval air base at Guam, which is an important link in our trans-Pacific air operations. Already a squadron of some 15 planes has been stationed there. Finally, there is the matter of the American navy holding maneuvers in the Pacific in recent years.

Interpreting these various movements and naval operations, Representative Vinson, who probably knows as much about the United States naval establishment as any other person in the government, insists that this country is not preparing for war. "We are not preparing for war, but merely building up our defense works as a protection against war," he said.

AGE PENSION NOTE NO COST TO STATE

Murdaugh Says Welfare Department 'Bore No Expense' of Letter.

By The Associated Press.
Lamar Murdaugh told a legislative investigating committee yesterday the State Department of Public Welfare which he heads bore "no expense" in connection with letters sent old-age pensioners by W. W. Webb urging them to write their legislators to support Rivers-sponsored tax measures. Webb is president of the Old Age Pension Clubs of Georgia. He also heads the old-age pension section of the welfare department. The committee, acting under a resolution adopted by the house Friday, is seeking to learn how many letters were sent pensioners, who sent them, how much they cost and who paid for them.

Before ending its first session late yesterday, the committee heard from Murdaugh and Mrs. Jane Kytte, secretary to Webb. The investigation will be resumed today. Murdaugh told the committee he did not see the letter, made no suggestions about it and stated "the welfare department went to no expense in connection with it."

He said he had not seen Webb since the letter was sent. Mrs. Kytte testified Webb left Atlanta Friday for Redick, Fla., where he is visiting a son. She said the 81-year-old man had been ill since before Christmas and she thought he would return here as soon as he was able.

No Objection.
Murdaugh said Mrs. Kytte asked him if it would be "agreeable with him (Murdaugh) for Mr. Webb to get out a letter to pensioners as head of the Old Age Pension Club. The director said he told her he had no objections. Representative Simmons, of DeKalb county, referred to the flood of letters received by legislators from pensioners after Webb sent his letter and asked Murdaugh if he "didn't think this matter would be very embarrassing to legislators for those letters to come back here after we have given the department all the appropriation asked for it?"

Murdaugh said he "wouldn't comment on that." Questioned by Committee.
Mrs. Kytte was questioned steadily by Representative Elliott, of Muscogee, for a quarter hour, but by several other committee-men. She said an Atlanta company printed the letters for Webb and that envelopes for them were addressed "by about 10 stenographers in the welfare department office after hours Friday, January 28, and on January 29, which was a state holiday (Roosevelt's birthday)." She said she did not see the letter itself but did pay the bill of $292 to the printing company. In direct examination by Elliott she said Webb gave her the money at his home here last Friday and she paid the bill the same day. "Where did the money come from?" asked Elliott. "From the Old Age Pension Club funds," she replied. "The bill was not due then, was it?" Elliott asked. "Mr. Webb always pays his bills as soon as possible," was the answer.

BRIDGE LITE

By Harold Sharpsteen

BRIDGE SCHOOL SESSIONS CHANGED
The regular Wednesday sessions of The Atlanta Constitution's School of Bridge have been changed to Thursday of this week in order to accommodate large crowds attending in the Pompeian room of the Biltmore hotel. Classes Thursday, under Mr. Sharpsteen's direction, will be held at 10:30 a. m., 2:30 and 8 p. m. Constitution courtesy coupons for Thursday's lessons will appear in tomorrow morning's editions. No classes are scheduled for tomorrow.

ATLANTA THREE-BID SOLVES CRUCIAL POINT
How to show Partner a solid setup suit or one that requires no trump support has always been a perplexing problem to bridge players. The more Declarer re-bids the suit the more Partner is apt to mistake these rebids for frantic efforts to sign off. To immediately open at game level often results in serious penalties or, to the other extreme, may spoil slam possibilities. Undoubtedly the greatest confusion experienced in dealing with three bids was due to the fact that requirements did not explicitly specify a setup suit. This left responder in a quandary to know whether Declarer's three-bid was based on a solid suit, as: S-A K Q J 10 5 2; H-6 3; D-A 5 2; C-5; or a suit containing two possible trump losers, as: S-K J 10 8 7 6 5; H-Q J 10 9; D-7; C-5.

Guarantees Four Honors.
There is nothing left for Partner to guess about in The Atlanta Three-Bid. It positively guarantees possession of at least four of the five trump honors.

Any trump honor held by supporting hand becomes a positive winner. In actual play, this certain trump winner, even though it be a singleton, has too often been the crucial difference between game and slam, between seven-odd and six-odd. Requirements for The Atlanta Three-Bid are so simple a player is not required to know any high-card count. New players employ the bid with the same effectiveness as veterans. To further simplify the opening, requirements are the same, vulnerable or not, vulnerable, any position at the table.

Requirements To Open.
Open three, major or minor, (1) Any suit of seven cards or longer, containing at least four honors in the suit. No outside strength is required. S-A K Q J 10 8 6 4; H-9 6 3; D-8 7; C-4. (2) Any suit of six cards or longer, containing at least four honors in the suit. Some outside strength required. S-K 6; H-Q J 10 5; D-A; C-A Q J 10 8 4. (3) Any suit of six cards or longer, containing at least four honors in the suit. Good outside strength. S-A Q J 10 5 3; H-K 9 8; D-A Q 3; C-A. As a simple reminder, to open three requires at least one hundred honors in the bid suit. Till tomorrow—(Copyright, 1938, for The Constitution.)

VANDERBILT OFFERED GRANT OF $1,000,000
NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 7.—Chancellor Oliver C. Carmichael, of Vanderbilt University, announced to his trustees today a conditional gift of $1,000,000 for erection of a library to serve the University and also its neighboring institution, George Peabody College for Teachers. The grant, made by the General Education Board of New York, is conditional upon the two institutions raising an additional $1,000,000 before December 31, 1938, for a building or endowment for the library.

JEWISH WAR VETS TO INSTALL HEADS

Ladies Auxiliary, Sons To Meet With Post 112 February 16.

Officers will be installed at a combined meeting of Jewish War Veterans, Post No. 112; the Ladies' Auxiliary of the post, and the post's Sons of Jewish War Veterans, at 7:30 o'clock Wednesday night, February 16, at the Henry Grady hotel. The installation will be conducted by Harry H. Schaffer, of Pittsburgh, commander-in-chief of the Jewish War Veterans, and Mrs. Melvina Freeman, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., national president of the auxiliary.

Other national officers expected are Joe Barr, national executive committee member for this region and commander of Washington (D. C.) post, and Sam W. Silverman, chief of the staff department. A banquet will be a feature. Newly elected officers of Post No. 112 include Harry M. Wengrow, commander; A. B. Reisman, senior vice commander; Robert Spector, junior vice commander; Dr. Marcus Klausman, surgeon; Joseph Levetan, quartermaster; Mack Frankel, adjutant, and Major Ralph Willner, chairman, executive committee. Mrs. Louis Vrono will head the ladies' organization, and Marvin Fishman is first commander of the junior group.

MAVERICK ATTACKS DIRECTORS OF TVA

Demands Thorough Probe of Monopoly.
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—(UP)—The Tennessee Valley Authority is "contracting away" the greater part of its power in "direct violation of the context and purpose of the act," Representative Maury Maverick, Democrat, Texas, charged today. Maverick, author of two resolutions for the investigation of TVA, attacked the policy of long-term contracts and severely criticized the agency's directors. The Texan urged consideration of a third inquiry resolution demanding a thorough-going investigation of monopoly, "including the premeditated attempt of private monopoly to hamstring the President's power program."

1 KILLED, 1 INJURED AS TIRE BLOWS OUT

Auto Goes Over Embankment South of Macon, Lands in Water.

MACON, Feb. 7.—(P)—State highway patrolmen said Mrs. Ola Mooney was killed, and her brother, Lon Kimbell, both of Zanesville, Ohio, was seriously injured when their car overturned about 18 miles south of here about noon today. Officers at Perry said a rear tire blewout caused the automobile to turn over twice down an embankment and land upside down in several feet of water. Kimbell suffered several broken ribs and minor injuries. He was admitted to a local private hospital for treatment. Mrs. Mooney suffered internal injuries. Her body was brought to a local mortuary.

1 KILLED, 3 HURT AT CHICKAMAUGA PARK
CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Feb. 7.—(P)—Private Glenn J. Galloway, 22, of Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., son of Chief of Police Luther Galloway, of Copperhill, Tenn., was killed instantly and three other persons were injured in an automobile crash in Chickamauga National park early today. Common Sense About Constipation

If you knew that your constipation was caused by something left out of your food, wouldn't it be just common sense to put that something back? Your trouble may be caused by nothing more than this. For the most common kind of constipation is due to lack of "bulk" in the bowels—you need some food that passes on through the stomach without being digested. Kellogg's All-Bran supplies this. It gives the bowels the bulky mass they need to work properly. And All-Bran also gives them the intestinal-tonsils, vitamin B, which helps restore their energy. Eat All-Bran as a cereal or baked in muffins. But however you eat it, be sure you get some every day. And drink plenty of water. All-Bran is sold by Kellogg in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.
